

George Atkins And Carlson Coddington Sentenced To Jail

Enter Pleas of Guilty to Unlawful Entry and Are Sentenced—Atkins Also Fined $100 on Charge of Carrying a Dangerous Weapon.

George Atkins of Linderman avenue and Carlson Coddington of Highland were given jail sentences in county court when they entered pleas of guilty to unlawful entry. Atkins was represented by Palmer Canfield and Coddington by Roger Loughran.

The trial of the indictment charging burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry was commenced Thursday afternoon and six jurors were accepted when court recessed until this morning. At the opening of court counsel for the two youths stated the defendants desired to enter pleas of guilty to the second count in the indictment, unlawful entry. Mr. Canfield said his client never denied taking the electric motor which was taken from a building near Granite and recovered at Highland but they did deny the burglary charge. He said the building from which the motor had been taken was open and the youths did not break in. A personal investigation of the premises by him had shown the door open at that time and also the lock which was there was rusty and gave evidence of little use. For Coddington Mr. Loughran said that the court should take in consideration his good record. He told the court that Coddington was present as the companion of Atkins in the car he had not been the one who planned to take the motor.

Judge Traver sentenced Coddington to a term of three months in the county jail and Atkins was sentenced to six months in jail.

Atkins Also Fined $100
The people then moved the trial of an indictment against Atkins charging carrying of dangerous weapon. Mr. Canfield who appeared for Atkins said his client desired to change his former plea of not guilty and enter a plea of guilty.

In seeking the leniency of the court Mr. Canfield said that Atkins who operates a farm had been doing some special work for the prohibition department through the local office. In that work he had made a lot of enemies and had been told that a bootlegger was looking for him and that he had better get a gun for protection. This information had been given him by the local prohibition office and in accordance with that warning Atkins had gone on a Friday to Al King of the local pistol permit bureau and made application for a permit. He was told to return the following Monday. Instead of waiting until that time Atkins went out and got a pistol that day and was arrested that night when troopers found the gun in his car.

On the charge of carrying a dangerous weapon Judge Traver imposed a fine of $100 or one day in the county jail for each $2 of the fine not paid.

There being no further business for the court at this time a recess was taken until Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock when the John Richards case will be continued. The jury has been selected and the case will proceed Monday afternoon. Jurors not on the Richards case were excused for the term and County Clerk Simpson paid them for their services. On direction of Judge Traver jurors from Denning and Hardenbergh were allowed two days' pay where court had recessed over a day. This was due to the fact that it was impossible for the jurors to reach these distant points and remained in town over the adjournment.

Next week will conclude the term as the December term of Supreme court will be convened on December 4 with Judge Loughran presiding.

Reserve Bank Takes Exception To Critics

New York Branch Indignant at Washington Suggestions of Opposition to Treasury Support of U. S. Bonds.

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—Authoritative sources close to the New York Federal Reserve Bank today expressed indignation at suggestions in Washington that the Reserve System had been opposing the treasury in its support of the market for U. S. government bonds.

While the weekly statement of the Reserve System showed its holdings of U. S. Government bonds had declined $1,000,000, it was learned in a reliable quarter that this was due entirely to a repurchase agreement with one of the government sponsored farm credit organizations in one of the middle western Reserve districts.

It was emphatically stated that the Reserve Banks had not sold any U. S. government securities in the open market in many weeks. It was explained that through repurchase agreements, the Reserve System portfolio almost always fluctuates a little from week to week. The Reserve Banks, for instance made a practice of extending credit to meet temporary requirements to Federal Land Banks by purchasing U. S. Government securities from them, with an agreement that the Land Bank will buy them back at a certain time.

Schoolmen And Kiwanians Heard Talk On Education

An occasion that was generally pronounced to have been one both pleasurable and profitable, was the dinner meeting held at the Hotel Stuyvesant Thursday evening by the Schoolmen's Club of Kingston. Cores were laid for 50, which number included, besides the members of the club, their guests, the members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club and prominent schoolmen of Ulster county.

Principal Clarence L. Dumm, of the Kingston High School, presided during the evening. In presenting Dr. Lucas Boever to make the invocation preceding the service of the dinner, Mr. Dumm asked the guests to remain standing a few moments at the close of the invocation, to present tribute to the late Patrick E. Cullen, former principal of School No. 3. He referred briefly to the regard and respect in which the club had held Mr. Cullen, one of their former presidents, and also spoke of the fact that the Kiwanis Club had tendered him a dinner about a year ago as a mark of their esteem.

The service of the dinner was enhanced by songs in which all joined, led by Paul Zucca, with Danny Bitter at the piano. There was also an impromptu quartet number, given by Messrs. Dunbar, Finerty, Paul and Snyder, who finally acceded to Zucca's urging to take part in the program, but who positively refused to respond to the enthusiastic encore that greeted their singing. There was also a surprise number that was Alice Trowbridge sang as solos "Danny Boy" and "When Joy Comes Home." She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Hilda Boerker.

U. S. Will Regulate All Three Branches Of Beverage Industry

Codes Covering Alcoholic Drinks Being Prepared Rapidly for Roosevelt's Signature—Hearings On For Distillers And Brewers—Control Will Be Strict.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The Federal government plans tight regulation of the three important branches of the alcoholic beverage industry through three separate codes to be promulgated by December 5, the date of prohibition repeal.

Administration-approved codes are being rushed for President Roosevelt's signature. They provide a Federal Alcohol Control Administration to supervise domestic distillers and brewers and joint control of liquor importers by the treasury and agriculture departments.

Hearings opened today on a pact for distillers. Those for the brewers were set for Monday and importers for Wednesday.

The administration took into its own hands the drafting of the code after virtually discarding all important parts of tentative parts submitted by the industries.

Heretofore, the administration had permitted industries to set up their own code authorities. It decided to keep its hand on the liquor business.

In reaching this conclusion, it approved recommendations of an inter-departmental committee, created by President Roosevelt, for Federal administration until congress acts.

The substitute brewers' code made public today was similar to the government's pact proposed for distillers, providing control of prices and production and protection to dry states.

The federal control administration is to be composed of five government officials appointed by President Roosevelt and will have complete charge of enforcing the codes for distillers and brewers.

The amended importers' code provides determination to import quotas of all alcoholic beverages other than beer, and the licensing of all members of the industry.

AGED MAN FOUND ON ROAD THOUGHT HIT BY AUTO

Elmer Mower, 72, of Cedar Grove, was found lying alongside the King's highway, near the Rosenberg Trolley station, early Wednesday evening by Dr. Vorse, repair gang foreman of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, who with his wife was driving by. The aged man was taken to the office of Dr. B. W. Gifford in Saugerties where he was treated for a cut on his head, and injured shoulder and arm and body bruises. Later the injured man was removed to the Benedictine Hospital here. Mr. Mower when questioned was unable to state what happened, and the supposition is that he was struck by an automobile.

British Resolved To Make Germans Conference Partners

Foreign Minister Says Statement That Germany's Withdrawal Made No Difference Drove "Iron" Into The Nation's Soul—Not Target For Dictation.

London, Nov. 24 (AP).—Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the House of Commons today that Great Britain is resolved to do everything possible to make Germany, which withdrew from the Disarmament conference at Geneva last month, a partner again in arms discussions.

Defending the procedure being followed in an effort to solve the disarmament problem, the foreign secretary said there could have been no procedure more calculated to "drive the iron into Germany's soul" than to have told her that withdrawal from the conference made no difference, that the convention would be completed and then she be asked to sign on the dotted line.

"Germany," said Sir John, "is not a target for dictation; she is a partner for discussion."

He said the government already has taken steps to play its full part in endeavoring to promote diplomatic consultations.

The fundamental difficulty facing the world, commented Simon, was a way of reconciling rival ambitions and separate suspicions and adjusting the elaborate scheme embodied in the British draft of a disarmament convention to suit 55 nations.

Monetary Problems Taken To President

Morgenthau En Route to Warm Springs—Indications of Change Lacking—Expect Presidential Order to Continue Without Plan Modification.

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP).—The President and his new acting secretary of the treasury were looked to today for a decision on whether their monetary program shall continue unabated, be modified, or an official retaliatory campaign instituted against its critics.

Indications of a change were lacking when Henry Morgenthau, Jr., left Washington for his conference with Mr. Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Georgia.

The expectation at Warm Springs was that the decision would be to go ahead without modification, letting results rather than debate answer the critics.

One day less than a month had the gold-buying plan been in effect, its objective, the administration said, was to increase the dollar's price of gold, curbing the dollar's purchasing power and letting commodities bring more money to the producers.

On October 25, the gold price was fixed at $33.35 an ounce; yesterday it was $32.75. In London the price rose from $20.67 on October 25 to $22.48 yesterday.

Theatre Man Dies
Southern Pines, N. C., Nov. 24 (AP).—James E. Plunkett, of New York, retired theatrical manager, died of a heart attack here early today. Plunkett arrived here last week from his home at Rye, N. Y.

President Changes Cuban Ambassadors, Welles to Washington

Present Assistant Secretary of State and Matanza Minister to Exchange Places—Restoration of Cuban Peace Expected—Speculate on Recognition of President Grau.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt is changing ambassadors at once in the confidence of the early establishment of a government there meeting his conditions for recognition through stability.

Apparently satisfied that the provisional government of President Grau San Martin "will reach some peaceful agreement" in the "near future" which "may result in general support of a government" he announced his diplomatic transfer suddenly late last night.

Ambassador Sumner Welles after a return to Cuba to complete the understanding is returning to the United States as assistant secretary of state and Jefferson Caffery, present assistant secretary of state, is going to Havana.

"We earnestly hope," said Mr. Roosevelt in his statement, "that in the near future through a spirit of compromise on all sides, the Cuban people themselves will reach some peaceful agreement which may result in general support of a government and thus avoid continued civil disturbance."

Whether the new move means recognition of the Grau San Martin provisional regime was left to speculation, but significance was attached to the Presidential declaration urging "a spirit of compromise on all sides."

The apparent solution of the Cuban upheaval which has brought two revolutions in the last six months, and many new governments, comes, incidentally, upon the eve of the Pan-American conference convening in Montevideo.

The President is giving the most careful attention to American relations—north and south. His statement declared that:

"On the economic side, we have been hopeful of entering upon a discussion of such measures as might be undertaken by common consent between the two governments which would rebound to the benefit of both the American and Cuban peoples."

Referring to the lack of recognition of the existing provisional government, the President said: "We have not believed that it would be a policy of friendship and of justice to the Cuban people as a whole to accord recognition to any provisional government in Cuba unless such government clearly possessed the support and the approval of the people of that republic."

"We feel that no official action of the United States should at any time operate as an obstacle to the free and untrammelled determination by the Cuban people of their own destinies."

The Cuban declaration was issued dramatically last night just before midnight through Marvin H. McIntyre, a secretary to the President. It followed lengthy conferences in Washington with Ambassador Welles with the State Department and later with the President.

Only last Sunday Welles talked with Mr. Roosevelt here. He then was given the assignment to return to Cuba and help settle things. But it appears that the President and Mr. Welles and the State Department did a lot of negotiating after that—and that some understanding has been reached in the revolution-torn island.

LINDBERGH BELIEVED ON WAY TO SOUTH AFRICA

Funchal, Madeira, Nov. 24 (AP).—The big single-winged seaplane of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived over the city at mid-day on its flight from Ponta Delgada, Azores, circled three times and headed south through the calm air.

When the Lindberghs reached here they had covered about 600 miles on their flight from Ponta Delgada which they left early this morning.

Yesterday it was believed they planned to land here before flying on to Lisbon, but the direction taken by the monoplane after circling the city gave rise to the belief the American fliers might be heading directly for Africa. Cape Verde, the westernmost projection of South Africa, is 1,250 miles south of here.

LA GUARDIA ECONOMY CONFERENCE SUGGESTED

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP).—Without waiting for the December meeting of Republican county chairmen at Utica, called by W. Kingsland Macy, Republican state chairman, for the purpose of discussing "proper economies and reforms in New York City," Senator George R. Fearon, minority leader, and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnis of the Assembly today wired Mayor-elect Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York suggesting a conference for the same ends.

GETS HONORABLE MENTION IN WINDOW DISPLAY CONTEST

Donald Zucca, display manager for Flanagan, Archer & Watkins, received honorable mention in the recent window display contest sponsored by the Hickok Manufacturing Co. of Rochester. It was a nationwide contest and the award carried with it a beautiful monogram medal and belt set. This is said to be the first time that a store in this section has received honorable mention in a nationwide contest.

Johnson Takes Codes For Movies and Radio South to President

Johnson and Morgenthau Hold Important Conference With Roosevelt—Chief Executive Will Dedicate New Georgia Hall Tonight at Warm Springs.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt moved resolutely ahead with his dollar devaluation program today in conference with Acting Secretary Morgenthau.

The President, on vacation here, also considered other government business today in a meeting with General Hugh S. Johnson, his administrator of the National Recovery Act.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgenthau and General Johnson travelled here from Atlanta under the "Little White House" by way of new moves or changed policies.

Tonight the President dedicates the new Georgia Hall given to the Warm Springs Foundation by the people of this state.

He will talk over the air to the nation but his associates assert that he regards this event as one of intimacy through his close association with the retreat for infantile paralysis victims. So they do not look for any public discussion of the monetary controversy.

General Johnson brought with him codes for working agreements in the radio broadcasting and motion picture industries.

Mr. Morgenthau brought the latest data on the trend of events in the government's program to increase the price of gold and there was very much of a suspicion that the President and he might be ready to consider a step coupling a silver rise with this effort.

Administration Test Considered Likely on Vote of Representative

Political Leaders Think Selection by 34th Congressional District in December Likely to Show Attitude of Public Mind on Roosevelt Leadership.

By MAX HARRELSON, Associated Press Staff Writer. Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP).—Selection of a member of Congress next month to fill out the unexpired term of Representative John D. Clarke, Republican, is regarded by political leaders in New York state as the first real chance to get an expression from the voters on President Roosevelt's administration.

The election will be held on December 28, a little over a year after the presidential election and about nine months after Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration.

The 34th Congressional district, which Representative Clarke served until his death in an automobile accident November 5, is largely rural and is normally Republican. It is expected to go Republican in the special election next month, but leaders will watch the vote to see if the Democrats have gained or lost strength in Republican districts since the 1932 election.

There are at present 28 Democrats and 16 Republicans in the New York state delegation to the House of Representatives. Only one of the Democrats came from upstate.

Last year Mr. Clarke was elected by a vote of 55,735 against 44,174 for his Democratic opponent, Dr. John R. Seymour of Binghamton. Seymour, however, carried Broome county which has nearly half the vote in the district. Chenango, Delaware and Otsego piled up a heavy vote for Representative Clarke, whose home was in Fraser in Delaware county.

Traffic Cases In Police Court Here

Warren A. Williams of High Falls was arrested Thursday afternoon for parking his car in the fire zone on Fair street. When asked to remove his car he refused to obey the command of Officer Schoonmaker and was arrested on that charge for which he was fined $5 in police court this morning by Judge Charles de la Vergne.

The Rev. Harold R. Coleman of Auburn street, arrested on a charge of parking his car in the fire zone on Fair street, had his hearing adjourned to November 25.

Henry B. Osterhout of 261 Pearl street, arrested on a charge of failing to stop for a stop sign, had his hearing held open until later in the day.

Walter Smith of Lindsley avenue, arrested for passing a stop sign, was fined $2.

Frank Smith of St. James street, arrested for public intoxication, was sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Treasury Receipts
Washington, Nov. 24 (AP).—The position of the treasury November 22 was: Receipts $80,602,792.28; expenditures $196,457,493.78; balance $1,193,182,990.69; customs receipts for the month $20,138,944.19; receipts for fiscal year to date (since July 1) $1,119,214,565.25. Expenditures $1,782,066,909.42 including $622,182,884.57 emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $681,551,525.16.

Breaking Down After An Exhausting Examination, the 62-Year-Old Woman Physician Acknowledged That She Fired a Bullet Into The Heart of the Girl Who Was Unconscious—Had Administered Chloroform.

Fox Continues Story Of Bank "Conspiracy"

Magnate Who Lost Control of 1,000 Movie Houses Says Hoover Accused of Interference in Desire to Help Him—No "New Deal" in 1929 He Says, Just Common People.

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP).—William Fox told Senate investigators today that Claudius Huston, when chairman of the Republican National Committee, conferred with Albert H. Brown, chairman of the Chase National Bank, in an effort to get financial help for the movie magnate.

Fox, who lost control of 1,000 movie houses through financial difficulties, added that Huston returned and said Wiggin had turned down the offer to help him. "Tell the President to mind his own business," Fox said.

Huston, Fox said, reported that Wiggin had told him he "resented Mr. Hoover's interference in this matter."

This testimony was given by the retired movie owner as part of the second reel of the drama he was unfolding before the Senate Banking Committee to support charges of a banking conspiracy to take his properties away from him.

"Bear in mind," Fox told the committee, "these men in 1929 were mighty."

"They were not working under the regime that we are working under now. There was no new deal then. The common people were just people then."

"The Chase Bank had a huge capitalization and Wiggin felt himself powerful enough to say to the President:

"I resent his interference in this matter."

Fox previously had told a long story about "peddling my wares" through the New York financial district in search of aid.

"I asked him to return to Washington and report the situation," Fox said. "When he came back a few days later, I inquired whether he had done so and he said he had in a general way."

"He said he was going to see Albert Wiggin and could adjust the matter with him."

Then Fox told of the reply he said Huston brought back from Wiggin.

Fox said the Hoover administration was against letting his company go into receivership.

"The last thing the President wanted was for a corporation with assets of $300,000,000 to be plunged into receivership," he added.

"I considered Huston as the agent of the President to prevent this receivership."

COURTS CASE HEARD BY APPELLATE DIVISION

Among the appeals argued before the Appellate Division at Albany Thursday was the matter of Mathilda L. Cordis and members of her family who appealed from decisions in the lower courts which denied their application for an injunction to restrain the Hutton Company and Terry Brothers, Kingston brick manufacturers, from further operations on ground adjoining the Cordis estate, allegedly in violation of city zoning ordinances.

JOHN STOKES INJURED WHEN HIT BY AN AUTO.

Thomas Dougherty of Wilbur reported to the police department Thursday that his car had struck and injured John Stokes of 127 Pine Grove avenue. Mr. Stokes was cut about the head. He was treated at the Kingston Hospital.

Gold Price Same

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP).—A price of $33.76 an ounce for R.F.C. purchases of domestic newly-mined gold was established for the fourth time today. Meanwhile the world price of the metal was less than that figure for the first time in several days. At London it was $33.48 on a basis of sterling opening at $5.31 to the pound.

General Electric Dividends.

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—Directors of General Electric Co. today declared the regular dividends of 16 cents a share on the common and 15 cents a share on the special stock payable January 25 to stock of record December 29.

Get Federal Conviction

Philadelphia, Nov. 24 (AP).—State Senator John J. McClure and 70 defendants were convicted today on a federal charge of participating in the alleged Delaware County League "Protection" Organization.

Chicago, Nov. 24 (AP).—The confession of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop that she fired a bullet into the heart of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, while the girl was unconscious was announced today by Captain John Stege.

Breaking down at last after an exhausting examination, the 62-year-old woman physician acknowledged that she had administered chloroform to her son's 22-year-old wife, in examining her for a pelvic pain of which the girl had complained.

She had gone to her surgical office in the basement of her Monroe street home last Tuesday afternoon to find Rheta, chairman of the Chase National Bank, in an effort to get financial help for the movie magnate.

When she realized she was losing ground, Dr. Alice said, she became panic stricken.

"All the events of my life flashed through my mind," Dr. Wynekoop was quoted, "and I thought of a plot in an adjoining room."

Fearful of blame for killing the girl with the anaesthetic, she said she obtained the pistol and, holding it five inches from the bare back of the unconscious girl, fired a single shot. That shot penetrated the shoulder blade and passed through Rheta's heart.

Captain Stege placed the time of the killing between 2:30 and 3 p. m. (central standard time) Tuesday, at a time when Dr. Wynekoop had said previously she was absent from the 16-room mansion.

For the first time since the mysterious killing of Dr. Alice and her son, Earle, had met in the police quarters where both had been subjected to long questioning, separately.

Near the breaking point but always protesting his innocence, the 28-year-old widower had said he knew of a motive, and wanted to see his mother.

On her shoulder he sobbed a plea that she admit her guilt if she had done it because of her great love for him.

Looking solemnly into his reddened eyes, she said "I didn't do it."

Earle had told the police his wife had been termed by a physician "slightly deranged," and that she had put on pills and drugs in food at their home.

After their two-hour meeting, Earle had been led away to lunch. Then began the final questioning that resulted in the doctor's statement, with which Police Capt. Stege still professed to be unsatisfied.

Stege said he had found a blood-stained blanket in the house and had concealed this discovery from Dr. Alice.

Captain Stege asserted that the large amount of blood soaked in the blanket led him to disbelieve that Rheta had been chloroformed before she was shot, and that physicians had sustained his theory.

When Burdine H. Gardner, father of the slain woman, was informed of the mother-in-law's statement, he said:

"All I can say is, give her the limit."

The coroner's inquest was reconvened at 1:30 p. m. (Central Standard Time) to hear the new evidence.

Nurse Goes Free On Murder Charge

Santa Cruz, Calif., Nov. 24 (AP).—Acquitted of a murder charge, Frieda Wilhelmina Weltz was free here today to seek again the health and happiness she claims were shattered by the man she was accused of slaying, Francis J. M. Grace, retired capitalist.

The 43-year-old nurse, a veteran of the World War, was acquitted last night by a jury, whose foreman and only woman member, Mrs. Ruby Enemark, embraced her after the verdict was read.

"I never had any doubt as to what our verdict would be," Mrs. Enemark said, "but I was surprised it took so long."

The jury was out more than ten hours and had been ordered to hold for the night when agreement on a verdict was suddenly announced. Miss Weltz was so overcome on emotion she wept and sobbed when she was released from the Santa Cruz County Jail and went up to Chubbuck, N. Y., with relatives.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Pittsburgh.—Warden John Mathis looked at prisoner John Hurt, had him weighed, found he scaled 225 pounds and proudly announced him as the heaviest Allegheny county jail "guest" in the prison's history. Then came the denouncement. Examination disclosed that Hurt was wearing eight pairs socks, 12 suits underwear, 15 shirts, eight pairs pants and 11 coats. The big clothes man had been arrested for vagrancy.

Choice Cut, Too

Waynesburg, Pa.—A holder of judgment notes wants a cut out of a fund left by Levi Funk, bachelor, for the establishment of a club to educate housewives in his system of meat cutting. Armstrong Orlan says he holds Funk's notes for $4,500.

A Slight Error

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—Charles Heath, church janitor who takes a bromine medicine for sleeplessness, and takes it in grape juice, got his sedative mixed with the communion grape juice. A hundred communicants partook of the soporific mixture. The congregation drowsed; several members reported slight sickness. The First Christian Church is seeking a new janitor.

No Overtimes Wanted

Baholt, Wis.—Members of the Beloit College faculty and their wives have adopted an NRA code which they hope will prevent overworking of college party chaperones.

The code suggests college regulations to be changed to require one couple to chaperone a party instead of two, and asks that the chaperone assignments be rotated so each faculty member will not have to attend more than one or two parties each semester.

Asks Protection and Gets It

Friendship, Wis.—Sheriff Emil Griese, who has had to borrow a pistol when he thought his duties would require one, will soon have a small arsenal supplied by the county.

The sheriff was wounded while attempting to arrest two men recently and the county board has consented to buy a steel vest, tear gas equipment and firearms for him.

Bar-room?

Seattle.—"What is a saloon?" asked City Councilman David Levine. "A saloon," replied Corporation Counsel A. C. Van Soelen, after searching his mind and all the legal volumes in his office for several days. "Is what is commonly understood by the term."

He explained there is no statutory definition of the word.

There Oughta Be a Law

Philadelphia.—Conspicuous reigns among a lot of youngsters with their minds on December 25 and they're planning appeals to the National Labor Board, or Santa Claus. The trouble is that 250 toy makers went on strike for more money and—of all things, say the kids, union recognition! At a time like this!

Cop Talks Turkey

Ardmore, Pa.—Things looked black for William Hafferton, unemployed and charged with stealing a big fat turkey. The magistrate was debating what to do with the prisoner when a big, red faced man stepped up. "I'll pay for this turkey," he said. "Let the man go back to his family." He placed $3 on the desk and put the turkey back in Hafferton's arms. The red-faced man? Oh, he was Police Lieut. Charles Duke, the prosecuting officer.

REVEAL DECLINE OF STUDEBAKER WEALTH

Depression Wipes Out Once Big Fortune.

South Bend, Ind.—The decline of the fortunes of the family of Studebaker, once the city's first family, has just been revealed.

In a modest frame house Col. George M. Studebaker and his wife, head of the clan and one-time master and mistress of a great gray-stone castle, are weathering out the lean, depression years.

Gene is the youngest Studebaker fortune, which dated from the time the fortunes of the present family started a little wagon factory here, nearly 100 years ago. The millions that piled up when the Studebaker factory turned to the manufacture of automobiles have vanished.

Today the woman who ruled as empress of South Bend society and moved in the first social circles of New York and Chicago is living with her husband upon the charity of close friends.

The Studebakers live in a small white-painted house on a quiet South Bend residential street. Mrs. Studebaker, whose hands are more accustomed to pouring tea into dainty cups of porcelain than handling brooms and mops, helps with the daily household routine.

A maid who cooks the meals does most of the housework, but many of the homely tasks fall upon Mrs. Studebaker.

Family Loss Near $8,000,000.

The story of the acres left by the depression upon the Studebaker fortune differs only in degree from that of thousands of typical American families trapped by the treacherous declines of the security markets.

Close friends of the family estimate the losses of Colonel Studebaker and his brother, the late Clement Studebaker, Jr., at about $8,000,000. Most of the loss came in the terrific collapse of the local utilities empire, in which the family had a heavy stake.

The Studebakers had been closely allied with Insell in his spectacular rise to fame and power.

A few weeks ago Colonel Studebaker filed a petition in bankruptcy. He showed liabilities of $2,000,000, assets of $2,000 and about $35 in cash. Notes of other investors, which the colonel and his brother signed, added to their heavy losses.

Give Up Partial Home.

When the bankruptcy action was filed the Studebakers moved from their ancestral home on the knoll at Tippecanoe place. It was a massive, 50-room mansion of stone built by the colonel's father. The antiques and heirlooms of the family were left behind to help satisfy claims of creditors.

At this home the Studebakers had constantly entertained for large groups of friends. In the city the couple was known as kindly and democratic. Comrades of the colonel's Spanish war days were invited to camp on the extensive grounds of the estate.

Now the couple live in strict retirement. They see only a few of their closest friends. But those who have visited the couple in their modest quarters, report them still cheerful and smiling, despite hardships to which they are unaccustomed.

"Folks have been mighty kind," they say. "After all, that's what counts."

Egyptians Have Regular

Airplane Service to Sea

Cairo, Egypt.—Now residents here can commute to Alexandria, 350 miles distant, in an hour, and also to Meras Matruh, a fashionable bathing resort on the Mediterranean coast. In fact, one can leave here in the morning, go in the surf at Alexandria or Meras Matruh, and be back here in the evening of the same day.

The Mir airworks, an Egyptian aviation company, has established the first regular air service within Egypt. It has installed its own bus lines between the leading hotels and the airports.

The aircraft used are D. H. Dragons, eight-ton motor, 14-engine planes. The seats are extremely comfortable; there is remarkably little noise, and special ventilation insures a steady stream of fresh cool air in the summer and fresh warm air in the winter.

Finds Cigarette Fire

Hazard Can Be Reduced

Washington.—Cigarettes tipped with a double thickness of paper substantially lowers the fire hazard from discarded butts, according to tests recently conducted by the United States bureau of standards.

Tests made with tipped cigarettes showed that with half-length fast-burning cigarettes, an average of four fires occurred for every ten trials. With tips of the same length made of paper used on slow-burning cigarettes, only one out of every four trials resulted in a fire.

Utah Plans Fight on

Use of Outside Licenses

Salt Lake City, Utah.—The habit of many Utahans of securing licenses in California and other nearby states where taxes are lower will be halted, County Assessor Joseph H. Proctor has promised. The practice was becoming more prevalent, Proctor said. The Utah people drive their cars into nearby states, where fees are lower, then return, thus averting purchase of Utah licenses.

BASHFUL LAD TIES AND GAGS GIRLS IN HIS COUNTRY HOME

Youth Who Never Had Date Uses Strange Method to Get Company.

New Rochelle, N. Y.—Spring was in the air and it was playing hot with the young of George Cooper, Jr. At the same time it was unconsciously paving the way for as weird an adventure as ever befell two pretty models, an adventure which brought a rich young man into both a police court and a hospital for mental observation.

Cooper is twenty-four, tall, good-looking, possessed of a car and liberally supplied with money by his rich family. Yet the girls don't flock to him, as you'd expect and he would like, because George, you see, is under the spell of a curse—the curse of bashfulness.

He's On, So Bashful!
A pretty face or a tinkling laugh is George's heart to thumping, but it also turns his feet carrying him away from them. It always has been like that. George never had a date with a girl in his life. On top of that, right at the back of one, has deprived him of the safety valve that may be found in smoking, drinking or words stronger than "dear me."

This spring, harder hit than usual, George decided to do something about it. He thought and thought and pondered and eventually desperation produced an idea. Come what might, he'd date a girl!

He is alleged to have lured two art models to his country home. The models, Mrs. Louise Grouthoff and Mary Louise Harper, were engaged at a New York employment agency and went to Mount Vernon, where Cooper met them and drove to his home.

The girls charged he bound and gagged them and kept them in the attic four hours while he sat by reading a book. Later he united them.

"I'd appreciate it if you'd not tell anyone just how the evening was spent but may that you put it in modeling for an artist," he said when, near collapse, they left him. "I'll be in the Guild office tomorrow and pay the fees for your time."

Maddled by Detectives.
He was as good as his word, but as soon as he had laid down the money and returned Miss Harper's purse which, in the excitement she had left behind, a couple of detectives stepped out of hiding and arrested him.

Charged with second degree assault, young Cooper faced City Judge Dineen in New Rochelle later in the day. The magistrate heard with amazement the story of the experience of the two models.

"I don't know why I did it," Cooper said. "I never had a date before. Too bashful or modest or something to speak up and ask a girl. I guess I don't smoke or drink or swear, but I would like to be in feminine company often and on the spur of the moment I thought up this way of spending the evening with two girls."

"Well, I never," said Magistrate Dineen. "Take him to Gramercy hospital and let the doctors find out what makes him that way. Bring him back in two weeks and I'll either try him on the assault charge or put him in an asylum."

Set Barbed Wire Traps
to Snare Phantom Thief
Jolly Manor, L. I.—Ingenious traps for catching a thief have been laid in the back yards of this community as the result of more than 50 thefts of shirts and underclothing from clothes-lines.

With the police unable to catch the thief, despite the assignment of special patrols to the search each night, Jolly Manor residents have taken the matter in their own hands. Some have erected barbed-wire entanglements in their back yards. Others have stretched electrically charged wires near the clotheslines, and some have hung bells on the lines.

One resident has dug two holes in his yard, filled them with broken glass and covered them with sand and cardboard, hoping the thief will stumble in.

Cat With Head in Can
Ties Up Motor Traffic
Madison, Calif.—An animal that appeared to have a big penchant for travel to the Golden State highway.

"However, seeing the strange light in the glow of their lamps, and noting the shadowy figure darting across the highway and in and around traffic, jammed on their brakes.

Then Highway Policemen Ernest Hines decided to investigate. It was a big cat, the head of which had become tightly wedged in a tin can.

Find Five-Dollar Bill
in an Abandoned Log
Madison, Ind.—James Brooks found a $5 bill in a hollow log which he was using for fire wood.

The log, half submerged, was pulled from the Ohio river by a construction crew and given to Brooks for the selling. As he sawed through a crack, the bill, in a fair state of preservation, was noticed.

It was believed that the money had been hidden when the log was yet a tree.

Swallows 25 Cents,
Coughs Up a Dime
New Castle, Pa.—Although she had 25 cents, Myrtice Beck, eleven years old, was able to "cough up" only ten cents. The child had lost a dime and a quarter. After coughing all day, the ten-cent piece, a five-cent piece was used to retrieve the quarter, which had edged in the coughing.

WIFE FLUSHES UP RIVAL IN JUNGLE

Find Husband and Sweetheart in Amazon Wilds.

New York.—There she found them, says Juliet Rindquist, her husband and his sweetheart, buried deep in the heart of the jungle. Just as she expected, too, living there alone, together, alone with the monkeys and their love.

Twelve hundred miles up the Amazon Juliet had traveled in her search for Bob and his little Ferguson. And here they were at last, living under a palm tree having coconuts for two.

Juliet says they greeted her like a long lost pal. Parting, we were just thinking about you. Imagine having you drop in like this. Sit down and have something. We've just chased a baboon after another coconut.

They hadn't seen each other, Juliet explains, since Bob and Hattie had taken the run out on her over in Paris. She had searched every capital in Europe for them before she got the tip off that caused her to grab the boat for Rio.

Bob finally decided he'd be true to his wife for a spell, says Juliet. He asked her to wait in Rio until he took care of some business in Uruguay. He'd be right back and they'd sail for Broadway on a warmed up honeymoon.

Well sir, after waiting for six weeks, Juliet got a bit suspicious. She trailed Bob to Montevideo to learn that he had put a fat divorce over on her there. He'd picked up Hattie in Sao Paulo, married her and hopped for Hamburg, Germany, in the bridal cabin.

Juliet took the next boat after them, landed in Hamburg and found that Bob was suing for an annulment of their marriage. When she beat him in that suit, Bob and his sweetheart jumped to Naples.

Off to Naples she went, only to find they were one beat ahead of her to New York. And when Juliet caught up with them here, they ducked on a four-month motor tour.

That's when Juliet went to law about it. She sued for a separation, for a judgment declaring her to be Bob's one and only missus and for $100,000 from Hattie for alimony.

Thefts of Bicycles Are Now Common in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City.—Several policemen who work at recovering stolen property are advocates of a bicycle license law similar to that on automobiles. Pointing out that nearly half of their time is used in running down bicycles, several of which are reported stolen daily, they maintain bicycles should bear a license plate and be registered.

A moderate tax, $1 or less, would be assessed each owner to cover cost of making the plates and running the office. Several small gangs of bicycle thieves, who had stolen several cycles and reassembled different parts of each, have been broken up recently.

Blarney Stone Visitors Do Kissing at Own Risk

Cork, Irish Free State.—Tourists must kiss the world-famous Blarney Stone at their own risk. The courts so ruled recently in dismissing a damage suit against Sir George Colthurst, owner of the historic castle, brought by relatives of James Burke, nineteen years old, who was killed in a fall while trying to kiss the stone.

Several others have been killed while trying to kiss the stone, a dangerous feat which necessitates leaning far out over the castle parapet while some one holds the feet of the person supposed by legend to receive the gift of eloquence.

Jurors Find Cimino Is No Hoarder of Garlic

Chicago.—The biggest garlic case ever tried by the Chicago courts was settled when a jury found Frank Cimino, Madera (Calif.) farmer, not guilty of hoarding garlic. Cimino had brought suit against the G. H. Hammond company, charging that the concern had allowed $50,000 worth of garlic to spoil while it was stored in the Hammond warehouse.

The warehouse made the defense that Cimino was a garlic hoarder and had tried to keep the vegetable longer than its natural life in an effort to corner the market.

Saw for Gold Once Buried
Boonville, Ind.—Thomas White is suing for gold. He alleges Quill White, Owen Fitzgerald, Leo and Frank Roney dug up a pot of gold worth $21,000, which, he says, was buried by his mother. He claims one-third of it.

Twins Have 52nd Birthday
Montgomery, Ala.—John J. and W. B. Dixon, declared in a contest to be the oldest twins in the United States, recently celebrated their fifty-second birthday. They were Confederate soldiers.

Dressing 'To A Queen's Taste'

VICTORIA, SPANISH EX-SOVEREIGN, FAVORS SUBDUED TONES

When dress-designing is done "to a queen's taste," what is the result? These two frocks created by Lucien Lelong for Victoria, former queen of Spain, might serve as answers. On the left are two sketches of a model in soft brown wool with a little touch of gold lame giving brilliance at the neckline. For evening wear the former sovereign chooses the frock of dark blue velvet shown in two sketches on the right. Straps buckle ornament the decollete and belt.

ABLE-BODIED DERIVISHES LOSE EGYPTIAN SUBSIDY

Alexandria (AP)—The economic crisis has struck Egypt's whirling dervishes.

The ministry of religious control has decided that the dervishes, able-bodied men, no longer bring in enough revenue to justify their maintenance at government expense.

Their age-old stronghold, the Takya monastery, will be turned into a school.

Lake Katrine Home Department.

Lake Katrine, Nov. 24.—The Home Department held an all-day meeting at Mrs. Herman Roosa's Wednesday, November 22. They quilted a quilt for the 4-H members, 23 members and three visitors were present. A sumptuous dinner was served by the ladies.

Finnish Get Oregon Fish Eggs

Helsingfors (AP)—A shipment of 108,000 Chinook salmon eggs, donated by Oregon's fish commission to Finland, has arrived here in good condition. The egg gift was a tribute to the work of Finnish emigrants in bettering Oregon's fisheries.

The army air corps is testing synthetic rubber as a substitute for natural rubber in aircraft hose and gaskets.

Parent-Teacher Associations

Principal Van Valkenburgh was the speaker at the November meeting of the No. 4 P.T.A. held on Tuesday evening. His subject was "School Education and American Ideals."

He divided education into two classes, that obtained in school and the knowledge gained outside of school which some authorities claim constitutes 55 per cent of education. He spoke of the progressive education which is being tried out in some of the schools which differs radically with the older methods. The old ideas were to learn knowledge from children. The progressive idea is to let the child develop slowly through his own experiences and bring out his latent powers and faculties, teaching good work, health and leisure habits.

Mr. Van Valkenburgh felt that changes are coming in educational methods and coming slowly enough so the lag may be corrected. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Fred Lescovich, Mrs. George Matthews presided at the meeting.

A membership campaign under chairmanship of Mrs. Willie Roe, is under way and 33 new members were announced, making a membership of over 140, all of which have paid state, national and local unit dues. The platform adopted by the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers at their convention at Syracuse last October was read by Mrs. W. R. Anderson.

Mrs. Anderson also presented Mrs. Joseph Craig, president of No. 1 P.T.A., who told about the parent-education class about to be formed in Kingston, under direction of Mrs. May Peabody of the state department. A number of the members of No. 4 signed up for the course. The first session will be held on Friday at 10 a. m. at the Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. Frank Volk announced a picnic sale by Beulah Simons which completed the program. Sandwiches, pickles and coffee were served by the hospitality committee.

Following is the program for the remainder of the year as arranged by the committee under chairmanship of Mrs. George Matthews:

December (evening meeting)—Fashions Night; address on "Juvenile Delinquency," Judge Bernard Callahan. Discussion: "What can our community do to attract an active interest in special dangers to our children?" February (evening)—Founder's Day celebration under direction of Mrs. W. R. Anderson. Cake and candle lighting ceremony. March (evening)—Teachers' program. April (evening)—Library extension; speaker, Miss Helen Satterman. Discussion: "What type of story is most beneficial to the child's development?" May (evening)—Mothers' Day program under Girl Scouts executive. Program by Girl Scouts. Election of officers. June (afternoon)—Final report installation of officers.

Kingston: "The Bureau of Missing Persons." Pat O'Brien, Bette Davis, Alan Dinehart, Lewis Stone, Glenda Farrell, Allen Jenkins, Ruth Donnelly and Hugh Herbert are all present and accounted for in this picture that deals with missing persons and the reasons behind their disappearance. It's all about a tough, hard hitting detective, who finds the best way to get facts and figures is through diplomacy. This show is rapid fire, never letting up for a moment. The detective runs into all manner of difficulty during the course of the play and ends up by falling in love. For lovers of action, this talkie is hard to beat.

Orpheum: "Gambling Ship" and "Money Talks." Gamblers and a new racket of a gambling ship anchored off the coast, is the theme of the first talkie, and the cast is headed by Gary Grant and Benita Hume. "Money Talks" offers Kid Berg in a prize ring story. Julian Rose and Judy Kelly are in the supporting cast.

Broadway: "Four Acts of Vaudeville" and "Midshipman Jack." Bruce Cabot heads the cast of the movie, a sea story that is alive with excitement, romance and action. Four new acts of vaudeville complete the Broadway program. They feature the "5 Collegians", a novelty sporting revue, Fred Harper and Co. in "Back from Hollywood", Alexander Brothers and Evelyn, and the Four Honey Boys, a dancing and harmony offering.

Tomorrow

Kingston: "Christopher Bean." Marie Dresser, supported by Lionel Barrymore, Jean Harlow and M. H. Warner, was never seen to better advantage in this picture than in the month in which the grand old lady of the screen became 62 years of age. It is the type of story suitable to Miss Dresser's screen ability. It is filled with pathos, despair, tragedy, and then reverses into side splitting comedy. With the finest array of supporting talent ever seen in a Dresser vehicle, this new film must be considered as good or better than anything the star has offered the public. Recommended to everyone.

Orpheum: "Tomorrow at Seven" and "Sundown Trail." Two first run pictures are to be seen at the Orpheum, the first a murder mystery that is alive with thrilling moments and intense situations. One of the reasons for the picture's appeal is due to the excellent acting of the cast. Chester Morris, Vivienne Osborne, Allan Jenkins, Frank McHugh, Grant Mitchell and Henry Stephenson all do excellent work under the skill of Director Roy Enright. "Sundown Trail" is a Tom Keene western drama, and it is one of his newest and best pictures.

Broadway: Same.

Howe About:

Optimist to Pessimist
Lack of New Buildings
High Speed

By ED HOVEZ

It was once an Optimist who smiled more or less constantly, a man writes me. "Then some one I was very fond of, and had great confidence in, hit me over the head with a blackjack, and converted me into a Pessimist." . . . A lot of Argument, indignation, goes with this. The reader may supply it; my indignation Book is full for a year ahead. Besides, I'm rather quelling indignation. Surprise and Argument; as I can't see they do any good.

I have traveled a good deal through the South, and always been impressed with the absence of new buildings, of fresh paint. . . I lately traveled from the Missouri river at Atchison, Kan., by way of Hannibal, Mo., and Springfield, Ill., to Chicago, and returning by another route: Chicago to Rock Island, Ill., and thence to Des Moines, capital of Iowa, and south-west to my home. So far as I know, there is no better section of the north, east or west than that I traveled through, every foot of the way paved with the best concrete. During the entire trip I did not see a new building being erected, or a house of any kind being painted. . . The South has at least got even with its old enemy, the North. . . By the way, how I enjoyed getting out of Chicago, and into the country! (I do not like impudent big towns, or impudent big men.)

I started being frightened at the terrific speed of the automobile at twenty miles an hour. Gradually my timidity disappeared, and I submitted to thirty and forty; occasionally, and very briefly, to fifty.

Lately I made a trip over good roads in a new machine, and the driver soon won my confidence. At first I noted the speed was regularly about fifty, when conditions warranted, and it did not seem very fast, or unsafe. Within a few hours the driver's regular touring speed was sixty, with occasional short bursts when the needle nearly touched seventy.

And still it seemed not alarmingly fast; I sat beside the driver, and was thoroughly comfortable. In the afternoon the driver became sleepy, and a capable woman took his place. Her running speed, when all conditions were favorable, was fifty miles an hour, and I thought her a little slow and old fashioned.

On the trip I heard something new; that all automobile makers purposely deceive with their speed dials; that when the driver is apparently rushing along at sixty miles an hour, he is actually going fifty. The story goes that this is one of the secrets of automobile builders, and long kept from buyers, always disposed to drive too fast. I hope it is true.

Everywhere we encountered railroad tracks, but almost no trains. One day a passenger train went by (a very short one), and the driver said to his little daughter: "Baby, that is one of the old-time railroad trains you may have read about." In passing through the towns we noted that the railroad stations looked shabby and neglected; when we crossed a track, the rails looked rusty.

I can remember the day when even a section foreman was a big man. His tracks are now weedy, and he rarely has more than one hobo under him to cuss at and oppress.

A tepee Indian from the plains has as much education as I had when I began caring for myself, at the age of twelve or fourteen; I knew no more about making my own way than a young wolf knows when pushed out of the den in which it was born. . . That was sixty-six years ago, and I have come to believe in every really good teaching taught by anybody. I have accepted all such rules because they have turned out to be to my physical advantage and profit. My old savage streak remains at eighty, but convenience and necessity have tamed me; the moral teaching I so much objected to as a young savage proved, in practical experience, to be really for my own good, as the fussy old people said.

Because I do not like the Boy Scout movement, the late Edward W. Bok once attacked me, and we had quite a row. In reply to his statement that the movement was necessary to improve boys, I said he had done quite well without such help. Mr. Bok came to this country from Holland when only a child, but with the blessing of poverty and of good parents, became a very notable American. He not only made a great fortune, which is still doing good, but, as editor of a widely read magazine, perhaps planted more common sense seed in American homes than any other public man in his period.

The intelligence, experience and greed with which a woman shops in a dry goods store has been often remarked. . . Women are equally capable in shopping for men. In a bargain sale of men's women who inspect them are as keen and experienced as when in the presence of linens or dress goods, whether the prize being offered is baker, butcher, barber or banker. Let no man forget the cunning of the opposition is a love taste.

HOLLYWOOD
SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBERT COONS

HOLLYWOOD: Jean Muir, about to be launched toward stardom with the local ballroom that attends a film "discovery," is planting her feet firmly on the Hollywood earth and trying to view the scene calmly. "It isn't the big things that turn the head in Hollywood," is her opinion. "It is the small ones, the endless little attentions, all nice and very flattering."

"My first day on the set, one of the men hurried to bring me a chair, and apologized because I was to share a dressing-room with another player. This to me—a nobody! Why, I hadn't expected to have a dressing room on the set, or anybody to bring me chairs."

Jean is tall, slender and blond. A few faint freckles are scattered around a slightly tilted nose.

She is Scotch-English by descent, New Yorker by birth, and 22 years old. She prefers plain, comfortable clothes and low-heeled shoes. Behind the shoes usually sits a little Scottie named Shandygaff.

Up From $6 Weekly
Here's the story of her coming to the films:
After varied stage work she had become an understudy for "Dinner at Eight." She was drawing a small but regular salary when the opportunity to act in "Saint Wench" was offered. This play lasted a week, and Jean, with about $80 saved, had no job. She was existing on $6 a week when a Warner Bros. scout asked to see a test she had made last year. And so she came to Hollywood.

The ballroom started after she appeared in "The World Changes" with Paul Muni. Now she is to play the leading role in "As the Earth Turns," version of the popular novel.

"Provincial" Hollywood

Jean doesn't like Hollywood and says so. Movie land is too "provincial," she says, and there is something in the atmosphere that works against any constructive interest in things outside of movies.

"Here you can't spend an evening just talking with your friends," she declares. "Instead someone always wants to be going places and doing things—and I don't like parties or noisy cafes."

MOIST PORK SUPPER DATE

AT METTACAMONTS HALL

Mettacamonts, Nov. 24—A moist pork supper followed by a good entertainment will be held at the Mettacamonts hall on Wednesday evening, December 6. Supper will start at 5:30 until all are served. Entertainment starts around 8 o'clock.

Entertainment will consist of the following: A one-act comedy entitled "Who's Crazy Now?" with the following characters: Abigail Saifon, the matrimonial old maid, Mrs. Eliza Miller; Smooth, the ally crook, Aaron Bell; Professor Timothy Twittrich; Snowdrop, the colored maid, Jennie Dupuy; Expressman and Officer Muldoon, the Irishman, Charles Kelder. Also a black-face comedy, "Two Coons in a Wreck," with Applejack White, Edward Kelder, and Coke, Robert Kelder. There also will be some good music. All are invited to come and enjoy a hearty laugh. Proceeds for the benefit of the Sunday school.

HID IN HOME WAITING

ATTACK OF FOUR MEN.

State Trooper Reilly was called to the town of Esopus recently where it was reported John Russell, a resident of the River road, was acting in a strange manner. On arrival at the Russell home the trooper was informed by Russell that four men were outside and had been there for some time planning to kill him. He said he had been told that the four men were waiting to shoot him, hit him with a lead pipe and throw his body down a ravine. The men, he said, had been given $25 to kill him. After conversing with Russell the trooper decided the story was more than unusual and failing to see the four men Russell said were then outside on the road waiting for him, the officer decided an examination was necessary. After an examination by Drs. Keefe and Van Wagenen, Russell was committed to a state institution for treatment.

Convict Ship Success

The convict ship Success was built by the British government in 1790 at Moulmain, East India. When the convict ship system was abolished the vessel was scuttled and sunk in Sydney harbor, Australia, and lay there for five years. It was subsequently raised to serve as an object lesson in prison reform. Since that time the vessel has been traveling from port to port as an exhibit.

Pinafore to Be Given
At High School Tonight

This evening at 8:15 o'clock in the high school auditorium, the Kingston playing public will be offered a rare treat as the curtain opens for "H. M. S. Pinafore," the musical comedy to be presented by the athletic and musical organizations of the high school.

The final dress rehearsal was held last night and went over without a flaw. This and other conditions all point to the fact that "Pinafore" will be one of the biggest and best musical comedies to ever be produced in the high school.

The action for Pinafore takes place on the quarterdeck of the "H. M. S. Pinafore," which is at anchor off Portsmouth. The story is centered about the love of the captain's daughter, Josephine, which will be played by Margaret Smith, for a top-man, Ralph Backstrom, Wendell Schorer. However, Josephine's hand already has been promised to Sir Joseph Porter, Harold Darling, who is a British cabinet minister, and his cousins and his aunt to claim Josephine's hand. Meanwhile Buttercup, Dorothy Brinks, a bombast woman who comes on board falls in love with Captain Corcoran, who will be portrayed by Lester Finley. Finally after many "Oh! Horrors", Buttercup discloses a dark secret which straightens matters out.

Kiwanians Heard Talk on Education

had arisen regarding public education that up to that time had been given little thought. The speaker said that Kingston had not had to face the severe financial difficulties experienced in many parts of the country, but speaking generally there was much discussion as to whether schools had not grown beyond themselves to a point where something ought to be done, much talk of reorganizing educational programs, of cutting out "fads and frills," and the inability to collect taxes. He quoted a recent speaker who advocated the elimination of all other things, of kindergarten, of municipal support for college education (having particular reference to the city of New York) and the reduction of the high school program to as little as ten grades.

Dr. Dearborn said that he appreciated the attitude taken by so many these days, but held that it represented a psychology of fear and despair. He took the position that the program of public education, instead of being contracted, should be expanded and as a reason called attention to the steady shortening in the hours of work from a 10-hour day when he was a boy, to eight hours and now in many cases to six hours. Dr. Dearborn said that he would not be surprised if during his day industry adopted a four-hour working day.

This shortening of the working day, said the speaker, means that people must be given something to do; there must be provided a program of wholesome activities for idle time. Unless this is done, said he, men as well as boys will "get into delirium."

Dr. Dearborn said that a type of education must be provided that will forestall the chaotic condition that will inevitably follow unoccupied time and to that end programs, particularly in the realm of higher education, should be developed. He called attention to the fact that already the federal government is making provision for adult education.

"The family tree of school economy," was the subject taken by Dr. Dearborn for the main part of his address of the evening, being an address which he had prepared for an educational conference held at Pittsburgh last spring. It held the interested attention of all to its conclusion and was conceded to be a fair presentation of the points of view of the schoolman and the layman, both of whom, said the speaker, were right and wrong.

Dr. Dearborn's address was an alphabetical account of the birth to John Q. Public and his trial-marriage spouse, Miss Prudence Prim, the village school-marm, of their son, "School Economy," and the difficulties they have had with the boy. Following are some extracts from the history as given:

"The child was born unexpectedly in 1930. It is hardly necessary to note that their offspring became exceedingly troublesome in 1930 and constituted what is called these days a "problem child." Psychiatrists and others were consulted, but no satisfactory remedial treatment has been found. This is not surprising, because the child is all right and would do pretty well in a new or changed environment. John and Prudence are the ones that need psychological attention.

"John has been so busy with politics, banking, industry and a little farming on the side the last 30 years that he hasn't given much thought to his home life. He assumed that he was well and paid his bills regularly and philosophically until the last two or three years. He was then forced of the current and credit standard, around around thinking, or just sat around and finally noticed something wrong with his child, School Economy. He tried all the home remedies—castor oil, catnip tea, fat pork and kerosene, but the child was still a problem.

"Prudence has been a school teacher for the last 20 years. She liked John well enough, but was too busy to spend much time with him. John took her for granted in the usual husbandly way, so they rarely discussed the child. In fact, the neglect was so marked that a stranger would never have known they had a third member of the family.

"Prudence was a respectable person, but quite austere. She had been kept in the background so long by John that reticence and aloofness had become habits. Her opinion in the importance of the great world were not considered of any consequence and after a few feeble attempts to become interested in and subsided to her classroom in the day time and to her study in the evening. She did a little shopping Saturday and school holidays; attended the lecture course; went to the summer school now and then to brush up, as John explained in a bewildered manner and one summer, to the consternation of a few indignant neighbors Prudence took a trip to Europe.

"Her most conspicuous social role in the community was the chairmanship of the refreshment committee at the meetings of the Parent-Teacher Association. Tea and cakes became synonymous with Prudence in the social life of the P.-T. A. Beyond that point, she seldom ventured out she met open ridicule, painful silence, or, at the best, polite tolerance. . . . Now and then she felt inspired to make the classroom a place where children could really be educated. A few of her ideas were actually incorporated in the school program, but without any enthusiastic support from John and his friends. . . . Many of her new ideas were very valuable, but they were held up in scorn by none other than John as 'fads and frills.'

"We all know how they lived and what they did from 1900 to 1929 and from 1929 right up to this minute. Only one radical change was made in their home. In 1930, one year after School Economy was born, they changed the motto in the living room from 'God Bless Our Home' to 'God Bless Our Budget.' That was an innocent gesture, but it raised the devil all over the country.

"John has begun to feel that the books are full of fads and frills about bringing up children. When John found that a boy he was hounded with salt pork and turnip time. Now he must take his child, if he bumps his head on a door knob, to a physician who pumps him full of iodine and tells him to go to bed and watch him carefully for several days. He never heard of vitamins when he was a boy and now the dietitians prescribe it's spinach and the next day spinach starts a riot among the experts. So what does John think and say and do? He consults fads with facts and frills with bills and acts accordingly. Back to the good old days," says John, and is generously applauded for his judgment.

"Another confusing factor in John's thinking has been the influence of fear among his neighbors. Business has been discouraging and even disastrous; banks have failed; taxes are uncollectible; and so fear drives budget makers to precipitate and drastic action. Budgets must balance, and right now. So off go lump sums for operation and maintenance of schools and straight percentages of salaries. Saving money is confused with economy. Fear has driven people to desperate measures. Justice is pitched out the back door and fear is crowned king.

"The halcyon days before School Economy was born had an aftermath for John that induced more headaches and several other aches and pains. In boom times he acquired a summer place in the mountains, two automobiles, a motor launch and membership in an exclusive country club. Why not? Didn't Bill Jones have all these things and didn't he have to keep up with Bill? So it was in the community where John lived. Painted Post, a neighboring village, built a million dollar school building—beautiful architecture, expensive stage fittings in the auditorium, swimming pool, stadium, early American furniture, classical doorways, an artificial lake in the front lawn and the best equipment money could buy. So John and the other local patriots said, 'We'll go Painted Post one better. We'll put marble doors on the toilets in our new school building; we'll plant every known tree and shrub on the campus; we'll grow in this climate; we'll equip every vocational shop with machinery, so that every industrial process can be experienced by our boys. We'll show Painted Post a thing or two.' Only two things were forgotten—ability to pay and the day of judgment. John forgets that he was a party to many extravaganzas five or ten years ago. He is disposed to blame the pedagogues and in so doing falls a little short of being perfectly fair.

"On the maternal side of School Economy, Prudence Prim, the school-marm, had her share of poor relations and questionable influences. Prudence listened to some college professors of education who were something less than statesmen. She was quite ready for emancipation; so when educators enlisted under the banner of science it was delightful for her to fall into line. She was now a specialist and could ignore her ignorant husband and his family. In school matters at least. . . . Prudence went to work on I. Q.'s, standardized achievement tests, score cards for this and that, and any method or movement that was tagged with a popular name by the right professor or the right university. She developed a hysteria to be 'modern,' 'progressive,' or 'new.'

"Error of Omission. . . . One of her mistakes was an error of omission. She thought schools were coming into their own when the building moth cluttered around the flame. 'Idealism' declared, a bank holiday in celebration of the great public victory. Everything from the tower to the boiler room was planned scientifically and artistically. The best that money could buy and everything the school building experts could think of were included. The ideal plan was the only acceptable one. Prudence made her mistake in not studying her local school community and urging John and his friends to start with the ideal plan and reduce it to fit the community purse. Of course the old buildings were disgraceful and inimical to the health and safety of their occupants. Of course they should have been replaced. That is frightfully true in some school communities today. But Prudence should have lived up to her name and insisted on a model that wouldn't contribute to an enforced bank holiday later. That was the error of omission. . . . 'She made another mistake. She sensed the value of special services and welcomed a great many folk into the professional fold with a variety of fancy titles—vocational and educational counselors, guidance officers, deans of girls, visiting teachers, attendance officers, psychologists, psychiatrists, school nurses, oral hygienists, school physicians and the like. True enough, each one had a valuable service to perform, but when too many of these specialists walked into the same system they stepped on each other's feet.

"The climax came, however, after School Economy became a problem child. Salaries were lowered. Prudence joined every organization in sight to wage war against teachers' salary cuts. Sometimes she was right, but sometimes she was wrong. A purely selfish bias displayed in the army of the unemployed, or a factory worker on a three-days' schedule whose wages had been slashed over and over and whose working conditions were unpleasant, too, had precious little sympathy for teachers who protested against a five, or even a ten, per cent cut. 'Haven't living costs been lowered? Didn't teachers have favorable working hours, frequent holidays, long vacations, pleasant environment, security of tenure, and retirement provisions? Who were these self-appointed gods and goddesses, anyway? Granted that organized effort of teachers to protect their rights was justified in many instances, was it always justified?'

Finally, in the autumn of 1933, when School Economy had gotten on John's nerves more than usual, he decided that the thing to do was to have a heart to heart talk with Prudence. As a result much of the misunderstanding between them was cleared up and they decided to be more fair and frank with each other in the future. They agreed with Glenn Frank "that most pressing problems now confronting educational leadership is the problem of imperative economy; the gravest peril now confronting educational leadership is the peril of irrational budget-making." They also agreed that there was much worthy of consideration in a statement by John Dewey regarding "extraneousness" in the educational system. He said: "The expense of even the extraneousness that could be dropped off is nothing compared with political frills in job-holding and in complication of taxing agencies. Let the gentlemen who are making a drive on the schools turn toward extravagance and corruption in politics and not take it out on helpless children." And it was Prudence who quoted another service, who said: "Professional services constitute by far the most important part of our educational structure. Given a good teacher and a child, education will progress. School building construction is temporarily at a standstill. That is well, except where building conditions actually imperil the health and lives of school children. I am convinced we have over-emphasized the school building programs in certain localities during the last 15 years.

"Ten Commandments" The allegory closed with the following "Ten Commandments of School Economy," submitted by John: Thou shalt honor School Economy the rest of thy days. Neither the public nor the teaching profession shall ever labor again in isolation, one from the other. Thou shalt no longer confound saving money with economy. Thou shalt not forget the theory of social democracy in the support and advancement of public education. Thou shalt forever guard against fear, idle rumor and false pride. Thou shalt distinguish clearly between the economics of free exchange and of restricted public service. Thou shalt plan budgets with due respect to justice. Thou shalt exalt the good teacher above all else in providing youth with the means of education. Thou shalt strive to keep all forms of public service free from frills and corruption. Thou shalt remember that America's most precious asset is her youth; that they deserve the best schools that America can afford; and that America's future place in the world depends upon her providing schools that will do for these youth what schools can do.

Among guests present Thursday evening were Louis Beeres, president, and William B. Byrne, representing the Kingston Board of Education. Schoolmen from various communities in the county were present as follows: J. Hartley Tanner of Accord and Ralph H. Johnson of New Paltz, district superintendents of schools; Dr. L. H. Van den Berg, A. B. Bennett and B. H. Mattison of New Paltz Normal School and Supervisor Fred DuBois of New Paltz; A. H. Campbell, principal, and Ross Clearwater and John Gaffney of the Highland school; Principals Wallace J. Stravell of Ellenville, E. C. Chase of Nanapanoch and Edgar Lewis of Port Ewen.

FORD TRUCK AND SEDAN COLLISION ON TUESDAY

A Ford truck operated by Fred Allen of Georgia and owned by the Coca Cola Company, and a DeSoto sedan owned by Harry Brink and operated by his son, Lester Brink, of Glasco, collided at the junction of the Sangertown road and the Glasco road Tuesday morning. The DeSoto was coming out from the direction of Glasco and the Coca Cola truck was traveling north on the main highway. The Ford truck struck the DeSoto which, according to Trooper Reilly who investigated the accident, had been driven in front of the truck. Both cars traveled some distance off the highway and struck the porch of the Salvatore Perez house, which is located about 30 feet from the intersecting highways. Rose Perez, who was seated in the house near where the cars struck, reported that she had suffered from shock and was treated by Dr. Childster. Brink was cut about the hand by flying glass. Both cars were badly wrecked and had to be towed from the scene. Trooper Reilly made an investigation but no arrests were made.

Youth Council to Distribute Food

Commencing today gifts of food will be received at the Y. M. C. A. by the Youth Council for distribution on Thanksgiving to needy families in town. Each year the council attempts to gather together enough food that several families may be taken care of. This year the need for food is much greater than in the past, and in order to give as many who desire a chance to contribute no matter how small the amount for those less fortunate than themselves, the receipt of food will be commenced nearly a week before the festive day.
 Gifts of food or money will be received, or if you desire, call the Y. M. C. A. 1100, and someone will come and collect them.
 The committee in charge of this project is Henry S. Van Der Zee, chairman; Miss Ruth Howard, Miss Marion Coutant, Wilson Tinner and Oscar Lawatsch.

Christopher in Trouble
 By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
 "Do you mean to say that you didn't hear us say that we were going to put our $2.15 in a bank—and that our bank would be a tree in which there was a fine hole hidden by a vine?" asked Willy Nilly.
 "I never heard you say that," said Christopher decidedly. "I thought you kept the money in a cracked cup on the mantelpiece. I remember how much we needed money when Rip had to have a license and I didn't know when we might need it again. I wouldn't have touched that for anything. How dare you accuse me of such a thing?"
 "We meant that you did it for a prank," said Willy Nilly, more softly. "We knew you'd give it back. But you must admit that you like to take things."
 "Besides," crowed Top Notch, "you admitted you were guilty. Now you are using up a lot of time trying to fool us some more."
 "But I'm not guilty of stealing the money," cawed Christopher.
 Willy Nilly trembled.
 "You mean you have done something else that is wicked?" Willy Nilly asked.
 "Well, it wasn't so very wicked," said Christopher. But at that moment Grandma Grouchy Galump appeared, her shawl carelessly thrown around her. She looked very angry and excited.
 "There you are, you bad Crow. You'll be punished for what you did."
 Christopher flew to the branch of the nearest tree and looked down on them all. Top Notch, Willy Nilly and Rip were completely puzzled.

FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

If You Are Easily Ruffled

Illustrated are some of the interesting ways in which designers have been influenced by the Augustan costume at the left. The costume in question was seen in many of the import groups, and besides copies of the dress, many adaptations of it were presented.
 It is interesting to observe that the metal gilet that was such an attractive feature of the original was retained in most instances, with occasional substitutions in the way of velvet, taffeta, or satin.
 The illustrations reveal the liking for the fluttering soft ruffle, sometimes repeated at the throat, also the approval for the double-breasted jacket.

Old Gems in New Settings

Use of old-fashioned stones in new and modern techniques is the new jewelry trend. For instance, the amethyst has every high, according to its color fitness in the present fashion scene, to be popular. It stands the chance of renewed life now because clever jewelry designers have adapted it to new settings and cuts.

This intelligent scheme obliterates those settings and styles that can bring forth sentimental admiration but are barred when it comes to actually wearing them with modern, smart clothes. Much is done along the same lines with other old-fashioned stones that have a place in the new jewelry revival, like garnets, topaz, opal, tourmaline and especially the turquoise.

Fashion in a Mood to Be Kind

New York—Designers, as often unmindful of the larger woman, are this season in a mood to be kind. Take the tunic as an example. Some tunics are very flattering to her; not all, of course, but the longer ones. Take sleeves, while the full-at-the-top kind are deadly for those who are not slender, the sleeve that is full, or bellows out below the elbow is inclined to be helpful in detracting from an over full figure.

Speaking of sleeves, Schiaparelli has been launching mousquetaire types, the sort that wrinkle over the arm. This is also a type that is not necessarily restricted to the younger set.

Milliners, too, are in a more considerate mood, for if a woman has sense enough to keep away from bonnets, the baby variety or otherwise, she will not find it so difficult as it was to be suited in a hat. Crowns do a great many things, and it's the crown that dates the hat every time.

The square crown is a favorite for certain types, especially in felt, tricorne; the friend of the matron at all times, are in, and are too swanky for words in flat furs; so are the draped fabric hats and hats with brims. With or without forehead veils, all these are bent on being friendly to the woman who isn't young, and has sense enough to know it.

Colors too are sympathetic, mid-night or blackish navy and treebark browns. There is purple also. There is a feeling that when one is young, it's effective to wear purple, but when one gets to an age associated with purple it is well to let it severely alone. That might have been so once, but fashion happening to have touched the entire purple range with her magic wand, has removed its curse.

FOR THE LARGER LADY

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

The long time tunic silhouette is effectively shown in a dark green crepe frock having metal-shot fabric vestee and collar, and showing to verted pleat capelets which serve to emphasize the long, slender line of the sleeves.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

For evening handkerchiefs, pastel chiffons edged with ostrich plumes are worth mentioning. Very large, delicately toned chiffons with a single huge slender initial embroidered in darker and lighter shades of the chiffon color are approvingly mentioned for evening. Mousselines in this 22-inch size are very good.

"We kept well last winter"

THOUSANDS of people "kept on the sunny side of life" last winter. They kept themselves free from common constipation—the ailment that so frequently tears down resistance to "colds" and other winter infections.

Stand guard over the health of your family this winter. Correct common constipation the safe way—by proper diet. Serve them frequently with a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN is also rich in blood-building iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in severe cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, omelets, breads, etc. Sold by all grocers, in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Oil From Iraq Ready to Flow In French Pipes

By M. K. WHITEHARTER.
Paris, (AP)—Mesopotamian oil over which diplomatic battles have waged, will flow into Parisian automobile tanks within a few months, the French Oil Company, holder of one-fourth interest in the rich Iraq oil fields, has announced.

The 531-mile northern branch of the pipeline from Kirkuk, Iraq, to Tripoli, in French-occupied Syria, has been completed and the southern branch—417 miles—from Kirkuk to Haifa, in English-occupied Palestine, is nearing completion.

Helps French Defense.
The pipeline to the Mediterranean runs under the Taurus and Euphrates rivers and over mountains and deserts. Two 16-inch pipes were laid under dramatic circumstances and news that oil would soon flow from the French wells was welcome in France which has no oil of its own.

Lack of the black liquid hampered the French in the war and they have fought constantly since then to obtain an independent supply as a national defense measure. This created bitter controversy among the ex-allies who wanted to profit from the Mosul fields which fell into their hands as a result of the war. Three American-English companies and the French agreed in 1929 to share the oil equally but this only started complications for both the French and the English wanted the pipeline to end in territory over which they had control.

The end to this dispute did not come until 1931 when it was agreed to construct two pipelines, one ending at Tripoli and the other at Haifa. Reservoirs Ready For Oil.
The Shell Company of Palestine and the Vacuum Oil Company of the United States have erected large reservoirs and filling instruments at Haifa while the French have been building necessary machinery at Tripoli to ship the oil to Le Havre.

The French oil company is state-owned and the chamber of deputies is now considering creation of an oil monopoly. Until 1931, a half-dozen American companies furnished France with more than half of all petroleum products she imported. Since then greater quantities have been coming from Russia and Rumania and America's share diminished from 53 per cent in 1930 to 36 per cent in 1932.

HEALTH CAMPAIGN PLANNED BY NAZIS FOR ALL GERMANY

Berlin (AP)—A vast program to combat disease has been outlined by Prof. Hans Reiter, newly appointed president of the federal board of health.

The problems of cancer, tuberculosis and infantile paralysis, he stated, would be attacked, especially cancer, as, owing to the world war, there is today in Germany a greater percentage of the population at an age which seems especially liable to that scourge.

Food is another vital question, he continued. "Our business," he said, "is to determine what foods yield the maximum of human efficiency and endurance."

In this connection the effects of nicotine and alcohol on the human system will be closely studied.

Before his government appointment Prof. Reiter held the chair of bacteriology and serology in the University of Rostock.

RUSSIAN TRAVEL BONUS OFFERED SWEDISH REDS

Stockholm (AP)—The governing council of Norrbo, a community in northern Sweden, has decided to help communist sympathizers visit the country whose praises they sing.

A bonus of 200 Swedish kronor (about $40) will be paid each communist sympathizer who will agree to go to Russia and stay there at least two years.

Sweden Honor Elkhart Victims.
Stockholm (AP)—A monument has been erected in Bustvika, northern Sweden, to 2,400 soldiers who froze to death in a blizzard in 1718 while retreating from an unsuccessful invasion of Norway.

John Richert Case Is Adjourned to Monday In County Court Here

Application For An Alternate Juror Made But Motion Not Granted—Anthony Anderson Goes Home—Sentence—Selecting Jury In Atkins-Coddington Case.

The first application for an alternate juror was made in Ulster county Thursday when Cleon E. Murray, district attorney, asked that under section 55-a a thirteenth man be selected to sit in on the John Richert case. This request was made by Mr. Murray on the grounds that there would probably be an adjournment in the case and rather than experience a mistrial should one of the regular panel become ill, he asked for the alternate man. The application was objected to by Daniel Hoffman, who appeared for Richert and who said the alternate juror rule did not apply to the present case.

Mr. Murray stated that since the case had been moved to trial he discovered that one of his most important witnesses had disappeared. This witness he said was necessary to support the testimony of the complainant. Her location had been known until very recently but although the State Troopers and sheriff's forces had given wonderful cooperation with his office it had been impossible to locate the missing girl. However he said that he would ask an adjournment in the case until Monday afternoon as he had just received word that the officials had got track of the witness and he confidently expected to produce her Monday. If he failed to locate her he said he would have to proceed without her and take his chances. However he said he did not care to go to trial until he had exhausted every effort to get her here. Her whereabouts had been known until very recently.

Would Not Press Motion. Application for the alternate juror was made so that an extra man might sit with the regularly drawn 12 men and in the event one was taken ill the alternate would take his place. When Mr. Hoffman objected to the selection of an alternate juror Mr. Murray replied that the 12 jurors in the box looked healthy. His motion was made simply as a precaution to prevent a mistrial, and he said it would in no way prejudice the rights of the defendant. Mr. Murray then asked for postponement of the trial until Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. He said the defendant was out on bail and the postponement would not prejudice his rights.

Again Mr. Hoffman objected and said that in order to protect his client's rights he would ask that the indictment be dismissed since he was ready in court to proceed with the trial after the case had been moved.

by The People. Judge Traver denied the motion and adjourned the case until Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in order to give The People an opportunity to secure the missing witness.

Mr. Murray stated that he did not desire to state before the jury what he thought was the trouble and why the witness was missing but he said he would inform the court at any other time if so desired.

Bring Motion To Put Case Off. When the jurors had left the box Assistant District Attorney Haver moved the trial of the indictment of The People vs. George Atkins and Carlton Coddington. Palmer Canfield, who appeared in the case objected to the case going on at the time since there was already one jury selected in another case which had been adjourned until 2 o'clock Monday and that there were only 15 or 20 jurors available to select his jury from and that he would not have the full panel to select from if compelled to go to trial.

Judge Traver said that counsel had been afforded of the fact that the case would be moved for trial during the morning session of court and he denied the motion to put the case off. Mr. Canfield asked for a 15 minute recess to prepare. Later he appeared in court and stated that he appeared for George Atkins and that Rer H. Loughran appeared for Coddington. The selection of a jury was commenced.

Sentence Suspended. During the period while Mr. Canfield was getting ready for trial Anthony Anderson was brought before the court. Daniel Hoffman appeared for him. He stated Anderson desired to change his plea of not guilty to guilty of assault, second degree. He waived the usual two days time and was sentenced by Judge Traver. Before sentence was imposed Mr. Murray stated that two other defendants had been involved in the matter and both had been sentenced. These two men had previous records. Another defendant's case is pending. However the case of Anderson was an unusual one. He had appeared before the grand jury, waived immunity and testified. Mr. Murray said it had been by this attitude of Anderson that all of the defendants had been brought to justice and since Anderson bore a good reputation and had never been in trouble before he would accept the plea of assault. In addition a prominent attorney of the county and a man who held the office of district attorney many years ago in the county and knew Anderson's family had asked that consideration be shown. This plea and the excellent record of Anderson resulted in a sentence to Elmira Reformatory and a suspension of the execution of sentence during good behavior. Anderson will report to the probation officer.

Atkins-Coddington Case. The Atkins-Coddington case involves the taking of a large electric motor from the shop of Sam Crystal of Granite about a year ago. The charge is burglary and unlawful entry to a building. It is alleged the motor was taken from near Granite on October 28, 1932, and later recovered near Highland. The case was investigated by State Troopers when the motor was reported missing and after an intensive search was finally located and Atkins and Coddington arrested on a charge with the theft.

Women's Federation Executive Meeting

The November meeting of the executive committee of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs was held Thursday afternoon at the Kingston City Library. Mrs. Harry B. Walker, the president, presided. Following the routine business, Dr. Mary Gage-Day, chairman of the public health committee, reported that the Christmas Seals would be ready for mailing the day before Thanksgiving. She also reported accompanying Dr. Holcomb and Highway Commissioner Loughran on visits throughout the county in the interest of tuberculosis tests for the school children and also in the interest of the seal sale. There was a large attendance at the meeting in Sagerties and at Walkkill. Dr. Holcomb explained the wonderful preventive measure of having the tuberculosis test for school children. While Dr. Day explained what was done with the Christmas Seal money. Where goes, in the work of Camp Happyland and the good it does. Mr. Loughran showed the moving pictures of "The Story of My Life" and of the children at Camp Happyland. Dr. Day felt that these meetings were bound to be both educational and making for added public health interest wherever held.

Mrs. Reed gave a short report as chairman of the good government committee, speaking with appreciation of the improved acoustics at the common council room since the installation of the wiring. Mrs. Fred Luther, chairman of the motion picture committee, said that she would have a full report at the next meeting as by that time the NRA for the motion picture productions would doubtless be settled. Arrangements would also be made for the showing of motion pictures to shutins and better pictures are to be expected. Mrs. Luther further told the ladies that Mrs. Holland who entertained the Federation last year, would soon appear in two short pictures, one of them being a clever travesty on "Henry the VIII." Mr. Gildersleeve would bring the pictures to Kingston and the Federation and friends would be notified of their showing.

Mrs. Walker heartily thanked the Federation for sending her to the recent N. Y. State Convention of Women's Federation of Clubs held in Elmira. Mrs. Harry P. Van Wageningen also represented the Federation. While Mrs. Snyder, president of the Local Club, was its representative; Mrs. Fraser represented the Twentieth Century Club and Mrs. Ward Brigham represented Sorosis.

In order that all of the club members, especially those who were not represented at Elmira, and the individual members making up the Public Health Committee which was not represented, might hear about the convention, it was voted to have the president give her report Saturday afternoon, December 2, at the Y. W. C. A. at 2:30 o'clock. A special invitation is extended to the individual members and the members are all reminded that they comprise the Public Health Committee of which Dr. Day is the chairman. It is their privilege to entertain the Federation at one open meeting, taking their turn with the clubs.

Tickets for the coming Monday night Club Concert for the benefit of the Coordinating Welfare Committee to be given December 5, were distributed to the various club representatives and to Miss Healy of the individual members for sale.

Before the end of the meeting tentative plans were made for the coming annual luncheon which is usually held the last of January or first of February.

The average young man is driven by two kinds of women—those who can't forget him and those who can't remember him.

Local Saleslady (to old customer, purchasing 24 paper plates)—Picture is your wife out of town?

One local gentleman went out in the role of peacekeeper this week and came back with the usual result—both ears washed down flat on the back of his neck.

Elderly Lady—What are all those men doing?

Nephew—They are runners—the first one gets a gold loving cup.

Elderly Lady—But what are all the others running for?

"This day," said a recent horoscope, "is a time to avoid discussions and arguments." Every day is a good time for that.

"The manufacturers make no secret of the fact that they cater to women now," so says a magazine, adding that bathubs are rose-colored, handbags and golf clubs betray feminine influence. But one still may try a he-man shaving brush.

Manager of Restaurant (to Scotchman)—The idea! You come in and drink a glass of water, then walk out!

Scotchman—Did ye expect me to stagger out?

It's surprising how many people don't want a drink, but won't have anybody telling them they can't have it.

Boss—Is Perkinson a good salesman?

Manager—You bet; he could sell glass eyes to potatoes.

Political Speaker—I'm pleased to see such a dense crowd here tonight. Voice From The Audience—Don't be too pleased. We ain't all dense.

The manager of a big office stamped furiously up and down his room as he waited for his office boy to appear. The boy entered the room.

Manager (snapping)—Why hasn't this job been done?

Office Boy—I forgot it, sir.

Manager (raving)—Forgot—for-got! Suppose I forgot to pay you, what would you say?

Office Boy—I should come and tell you at once, not wait a month and then kick up a fuss about it.

First Business Man—My wife came to the office yesterday and fired that attractive stenographer of mine.

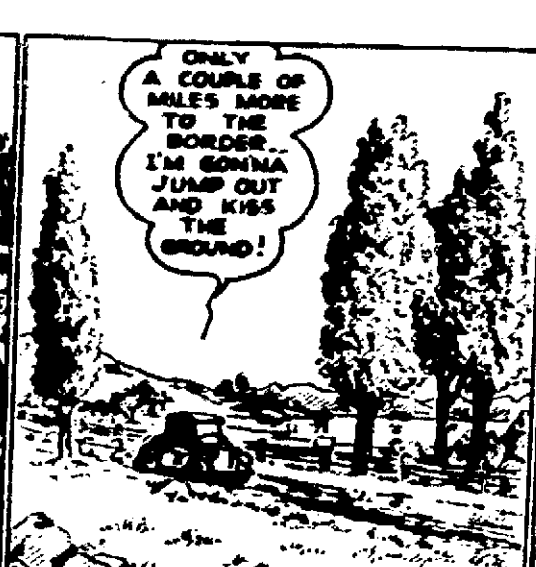

Second Business Man—Aha, I see, can't forget her old job of canning peaches.

The average adult is only 14 mentally, says a psychologist. Which would indicate that the average adult is considerably below the average.

Laziness is only condemned among those who can't find it.

SPORT SLANTS
By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

What's wrong with Notre Dame?
Quite a number of things, most of which already have been pointed out by the unofficial pointers, but it can't be the system.

On the same afternoon that the Notre Dame coached Naval Academy team was handling Notre Dame its third successive shutout defeat of the season, teams playing the Rockne system elsewhere were having a big time.

Slip Madigan's St. Mary's giants over-powered Jimmy Crowley's previously unbeaten Fordham Rams. Harry Mehre's Georgia Bulldogs scored their sixth straight victory at Florida's expense. Elmer Layden's Duquesne eleven rang up its eighth consecutive triumph. Frank Thomas's Alabama huskies knocked the Southeastern Conference championship aspirations out of Kentucky.

Since they couldn't both enjoy the fruits of victory, Gus Dorais' Detroit Titans overwhelmed Dr. Eddie Anderson's Holy Cross outfit. Gus, as most every football fan will recall at once, used to toss the passes to Knute Rockne.

Clipper Smith's Santa Clara Bronchos took Rice Institute into camp and Yale's exposition of the Rockne system again proved too much for Dartmouth to overcome.

All these were and still are playing the Notre Dame type of football, with the familiar backfield hop and the balanced line. Given the proper manpower, an essential to the successful operation of any system, it seems to be working pretty well everywhere outside the city limits of South Bend.

Heavy Handicap

Old Yale and Harvard grads, instead of finding fault with West Point for playing football men who have had previous college varsity experience and thereby taking advantage of the "bearded youths" at these ancient citadels of learning, have been urged to agitate for the abolishment of the Fall training restrictions at New Haven and Cambridge.

The existing football agreements between Yale and Harvard, which also include Princeton, prevent the start of practice before September 15. Army began practice on September 1, thereby unquestionably gaining an advantage over such rivals as Yale and Harvard in conditioning.

Eli and Crisman coaches feel they are under a heavy handicap with the late training start. The policy is an outgrowth of the Carnegie Bulletin era, in which Yale, Harvard and Princeton sought to overcome the bugaboo of over-emphasis. It not only has proved a source of irritation to those bound by it but the policy has outgrown any practical usefulness, in the face of its non-acceptance by most rivals of the old Big Three.

Bouquet for Bible

"You hear a lot about the Warner and Rockne systems, whose advocates grab off most of the coaching publicity during the college football season," remarked an old campaigner to us recently, "but I will spot you any coach in the country, or may be two, and take Dana Zenophon Bible of the University of Nebraska. He not only knows as much football as any of them but he knows how to teach it better than anybody I know. He's quiet but he is effective. How often do you notice his teams being beaten?"

The answer, of course, is seldom, perhaps not at all this year, unless the Huskers come a cropper against Pittsburgh or Iowa.

D. X. Bible was born in Tennessee, attended four different universities where he starred in at least three sports and has coached with conspicuous success at Mississippi College, Louisiana State, Texas A. & M. and Nebraska. His Texas Aggies won the Southwest Conference title five times. His Huskers now are on the way to their third consecutive Big Six championship.

Autumn
Autumn is not a time of death and sadness in the forests, observes a writer in the New York World-Telegram. The things that make a woodland walk melancholy in the fall to many sensitive folk do not lie in the yellow sunlight, garish foliage, sweet peacefulness of old pastures clothed in hay-scented ferns and bull thistles; in falling pale-gold leaves of tulip, birch and maple. They lie deep in the mystical depths of the human heart, that storehouse of old subconscious memories of glaciers grinding outside Neanderthal caves; of vestiges of emotions aroused in our superstitious neolithic ancestors by the approach of bitter cold, starvation and the terror of primitive winters. It is the signal of the subconscious mind to the intellectual mind to gather a store of food, furred or warm skins against the snow and ice. To the forest autumn is simply the time of fulfillment: of ripened fruits and seeds of approaching sleep, followed by spring reincarnation—and happiness.

Woe Is Fistiana! Baer Won't Be Back

The transition of a prize fighter, or from mauler to matinee idol in one jump. On the left you see a scowling Max Baer, as he prepared for his duel with Max Schmeling just last summer, and on the right the wild scene at Yankee Stadium a moment after the referee had stepped in to spare the German further punishment. Now see the new Max, in the spotlight's glare, the tender lover of his first cinema.

Prediction of Winners in Saturday Football Games

By HERBERT W. BARKER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—Still a bit shell-shocked after last week's dazzling array of upsets, football followers, looking for winners, discover another set of traditional battles rising up to confront them tomorrow.

In most instances, there is little to choose between the big-game rivals but on the basis of results to date, the prospects line up something like this:

Army-Navy—This colorful clash, the first regularly scheduled game between the service academies since 1927, finds the Army favored. The Tars are much stronger than a year ago but the impression is general that the advantage of manpower still lies with the Cadets. With Buzz Borries, Red Baumberger and Bill Clark, Navy has plenty of backfield strength to match Army's Jack Buckler, Paul Johnson and Joe Stan- cook but the West Point line appears stronger. Army will be seeking to protect an undefeated and untied record. Navy has lost to Pitt, Columbia and Princeton while beating Penn and Notre Dame in major games.

Yale-Harvard—Seldom have these ancient rivals come down to their annual battle more closely matched, on paper at least. But here again there is a well-defined leaning toward Yale, perhaps largely because of the Ells' fine showing against Georgia and the fact that the Blue has had the benefit of two weeks of comparative rest. Harvard won its first major victory last week but there was little to cheer about in the Crimson's 12-6 triumph over Brown. Yale's record in major games shows victories over Brown and Dartmouth, defeats by Army and Georgia. Harvard has been beaten by Holy Cross and Army, and tied by Dartmouth.

Notre Dame-Southern California—The renewal of this classic finds both teams already beaten and the edge in Southern California's favor. Tied by Oregon State and beaten by Stanford, the Trojans came back with a bang last week to wallop Oregon, 26-0. Notre Dame's first touchdown in five games beat Northwestern last week but the Ramblers still are doing most of their ground-gaining between the 20-yard lines.

Michigan-Northwestern—Michigan's the choice to hurdle the last obstacle in the Wolverines' path to the Big Ten title.

Princeton-Rutgers—Rutgers has a fast, clever team but the scarlet appears in for a beating from the unbeaten, untied and unscathed upon Tigris.

Minnesota-Wisconsin—The Badgers will fight hard but Minnesota should win handily.

Stanford-California—The far west's "natural" of the day with Stanford slightly favored to win, the Oregon for the Coast Conference title and perhaps receive the Rose Bowl assignment.

Duke-North Carolina State—Duke's perfect record seems safe for at least another week.

Carnegie Tech-New York University—The Tartans from Pittsburgh seem stronger.

Ohio State-Illinois—Probably one of the closest battles of the afternoon with a slight leaning toward Ohio State.

Washington State-Washington—Another toss-up with a tie apparently as good a guess as any.

Indiana-Purdue—Purdue the indicated winner.

Lehigh-Lafayette—A renewal of one of the oldest of all football rivalries with Lafayette favored.

U. C. L. A.-St. Mary's—A ballot for St. Mary's but by no top-sided count.

Florida-Auburn—The conquerors of Georgia look superior to Florida.

Georgia-Georgia Tech—This is one where anything can happen and often does but Georgia's record is better.

Bucknell-Washington & Jefferson—Bucknell's powerful attack seems too much for the Presidents.

Chicago-Dartmouth—Whatever advantage there is in a home field earns Chicago a slight edge.

Nebraska-Iowa—Nebraska's toughest at Lincoln but Iowa's triumph over Purdue inspires a wavering ballot for the Hawkeyes.

Temple-Villanova—Temple's attack looks better and better and the Owl's haven't lost a home game yet.

Louisiana State-Miss. State—Louisiana, comfortably.

Tulane-Sewanee—Ditto. Tulane.

Texas-Arkansas—The Southwest Conference is the toughest of them all to pick this season, explaining this shaky vote of confidence in Arkansas to win and clinch the title.

Southern Methodist-Baylor—Perhaps Baylor will pull another one out of the fire.

Texas Christian-Rice—Maybe the Horned Frogs have really started rolling now. If so, Rice appears in for a bad afternoon.

Washington & Lee-Maryland—Maryland apparently hasn't the stuff to check the Generals.

Centenary-Mississippi—Centenary may continue its unbeaten streak here.

Colorado Aggies-Colorado College—The Aggies are favored.

Detroit-Michigan State—A close duel in prospect but Doug Knott's passing may turn the tide in Detroit's favor.

Georgetown-West Virginia—There seems to be no relief for Georgetown's shattered squad in this game.

Legion Wrestling Program Promises Real Action Treat

For those who have never seen a wrestling show, and there are many in Kingston, judging from comment heard about the mat exhibitions to be run for the benefit of the American Legion welfare fund, lots of action will be found in the grappling program at the old armory Tuesday night, November 28.

That wrestling is a sport to which sportsmen can look for action, devoid of the trickery found in other athletic contests put on for amusement, is expressed in the following description of the "groan and grunt" pastime by O. O. McLartyre in a New York newspaper last Wednesday:

"I had no idea wrestling had become the brutal affair it is until watching a recent bout. In other days the tugging and straining were fierce enough but there was always a suspicion of fakery. There can be no deception about the newer method. It's a killing business.

"They take running jumps, head and feet first, into each other's mid-ribs. Heads are crashed with all the force of thrown bodies against the floor. They are buried into audacious lugs. I saw one wrestler reel, his arms drop while his nightmare mind tried to grapple with a flicker of reality.

"As he stood in an egg-peeled white daze his opponent raced the length of the ring and sailed head-first into the pit of his stomach. He sagged with an agonized ooof while both lay prostrate and possibly wandering through some Beld rich with poons. Finally they crawled toward each other like dying gladiators."

Stars on Bill
And to add to what Mr. McNulty says, describing wrestling as a killing business, fans may look forward to an eventful evening, packed with plenty of glazer, because the card of bouts bears the names of the best and most expert bone crushers in the business.

Reading the list of gladiators is none other than Jumping Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame football star and now one of the first rate contenders for the mat crown held by Jim Brownring, who will endeavor to pin Earl Duesch's shoulders to the canvas. Duesch, too, is well up among the grapplers looking for a chance at Brownring.

Another star is Max Mountain Russia, 28-00.

Dean, 300-pound Kentucky chicken rancher, who only the other night wrestled Joe Savoldi in one of the supporting matches to the Brownring-Sonnenberg championship tumble at Madison Square Garden.

Tickets for the show are in great demand, according to reports coming from the Legion Memorial Building on West O'Reilly street, where reserved seats may be arranged for now by phoning 1914. Those who wish their choice are advised to order early.

GRAPHIC GOLF

SHORT SHOTS TO THE GREEN

ON SHORT SHOTS where the yardage to be traversed is around 30 to 50 yards with traps ahead, a pitch shot is needed. Due to the brevity of the distance one is unable to hit hard enough to obtain backspin and a sidekick has to be employed to bring the ball to a stop quickly. Stewart Maiden's method of playing this shot is to have the ball opposite the left foot and avoid a too liberal turn of the hips so that the club will not travel too much inside the line of play. The toe of the club, as illustrated above, is turned to the right slightly which opens up the blade and this comes onto the ball from the outside on the downstroke. The spin thus applied will bring the ball to a stop quickly. On occasions where a pitch and run shot is desired, no backspin is played off the right foot and club face closed. Here the hip turn is greater with the hands inside the imaginary line to the hole.

First Books
The earliest known records in the form of writing are the inscriptions on tablets of baked clay excavated from the ruins of the Chaldean city of Uruk and believed to have been in use about 3500 B. C. Some of the oldest Egyptian papyrus manuscripts date from about 2800 B. C. The Chinese printed on paper by means of engraved blocks probably as early as 80 B. C. The first known book printed from movable type was the Gutenberg Latin Bible, completed in 1455. The first book printed in English was a history of Troy, printed by William Caxton in 1474.

Kingston Battles Newburgh For DUSO Title November 30

Next Thursday at 3 p. m. at the Fair Grounds, the football teams of Kingston High School and Newburgh Free Academy clash in what is expected to be the hardest and toughest fought annual Thanksgiving game between the two schools, as the DUSO title is at stake. The winner of the game will be the champion of the DUSO League in football for 1933.

On the season scores Kingston has a decided edge having lost only one game, while Newburgh has been beaten several times. However, in the DUSO scores of games to date the two teams are on almost equal basis with Kingston slightly ahead. Kingston's DUSO record is as follows:

K. H. S. 13	Port Jervis 6
K. H. S. 13	Middletown 6
26	12
Newburgh's DUSO record is as follows:
Newburgh 20	Port Jervis 12
Newburgh 13	Middletown 6
23	18

Both teams have won all of their DUSO games to-date and will enter this coming contest intent on winning and fighting to the last inch to win. This game is also expected to be one of the most colorful games ever staged at the Fair Grounds. The hands of both schools will be on hand to help with the cheering. A crowd is expected for this game that will break all records for football attendance at the Fair Grounds, as these two great scholastic football teams compete for the DUSO championship.

The students of the local high school are wild with enthusiasm over this contest and are planning to have a special assembly Wednesday morning in preparation for the game the next day. On Wednesday night they are planning to have a monstrous parade which will start at the high school about 7:30 and proceed up Broadway to Clifton avenue to North Street to the Fair Grounds where they will have a big bonfire, speeches by team members, mass cheering and singing. The school band will be on hand and will ride on trucks as will the team members.

So enthused are the students over the coming Kingston-Newburgh game that a riot almost occurred in the corridor at 3 p. m. last Friday when "Beat Newburgh" signs were being distributed. Every student wanted to get a sign.

Manager Ken Dyson of the Kingston Yellow Jackets, having received final word from the Wakefield Press concerning their grid engagement with the Wamps Sunday afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds, announced the opposing lineups for the clash which is expected to surpass in thrills any played at the uptown ball park this season and draw a crowd far outnumbering any attendance for this year.

The lineups:

Wakefield	Yellow Jackets
RE. Jones (14)	Gerchak, Hupfer
RT. Ferrari (10)	Winkley
RG. Khennel (44)	Howard
CE. Zito (13)	Mohr
LG. Hanlon (55)	Steigerwald
LT. Lauricella (57)	Raibie
LE. Taitell (99)	Mosby
QB. LeMaire (10)	Minsian
WH. W. Wall (35)	Christmas
RB. Annes (58)	Kelder
FB. Roos (26)	Beany, Flanagan

The Pros carry nine substitutes in Cassidy and Bobkowski, ends; Oest, tackle; Berman and Kelly, guards; Wagner, center; E. Wall, fullback and Krauth, backfielders.

Kingston has the following utility men to call upon: Vordick, Plough, Scully, Lewis and Messinger.

Manager Dyson said he expects that Pete Minsian, brother of Eddie, and formerly with the Yellow Jackets, may be with the team in its Thanksgiving Day game at Poughkeepsie and the following Sunday if a contest is played here on the Fair Grounds. Pete is now in the east, where he has won laurels as a collegiate wrestler.

Starting time of Sunday's game with Wakefield is 2:30.

Troy's Luckies Win From Tannersville

Jack Troy's Luckies, starting their season at White Eagle Hall, Thursday night, got away on their winter's campaign successfully by trimming the Tannersville Big Five to the tune of 38-27. Herb Van Deusen starred for the Luckies by collecting 13 points, while Honigbaum of the visiting quintet turned in the highest individual tally of the evening, 17.

The list of scores as made by both teams follows: Kingston—Chillon, 4; Van Deusen 13, Schille 5, Cullum 6, Mickey Husta 1, Phil Kelly 4, John Kelly 3, Rhymor 2, total 38. Tannersville—Bartley 2, Haines 5, Dougherty 2, Honigbaum 17, total 27.

In the preliminary the Fuller Girls defeated Tannersville's famous female quintet, forcing them to accept the short end of the score for the first time in four years. Sally Gage starred for Fullers with 9 points.

Next Thursday Troy's Luckies will take on the Beacon Repeaters at the White Eagle and the Fullers will meet the Z. N. P. Girls.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Tonight.
At Pythian Hall, Port Ewen—Spinnys vs. Pepper Martin's Bearded Beauties, 8:30; preliminary at 7:30, featuring the Port Ewen Juniors. Dancing after.

Saturday

Crisis Slugs by Telephone
That a cricket possesses hearing apparatus in its forelegs, and that a male cricket will hop toward a female cricket when the latter produces his love song by rubbing his wing casings together has been known for some time. But scientists have thought it possible that other factors, such as smell, vision or vibration might also be involved in this response, until experiments recently described proved this was not true. A male cricket was induced to chirp into the telephone and the receiver at the other end of the line was left off the hook within hearing distance of a female cricket. As soon as the chirping began the female cricket rose into the air and settled down beside the receiver. The Best News.

CANZONERI PICKED TO WHIP CHOCOLATE.
Tony Canzoneri of Mariborough, Essex County, New York, is the favorite to outpoint Kid Chocolate, Cuban flash, at Madison Square Garden tonight in their 16 round bout. The odds are 6-5 on the Italian. Weighing in before the boxing commission, Canzoneri tipped the scales at 155, Chocolate, 130½.

Engelberg, Langenhovel, 35, and Mrs. Martha Langenhovel, 72, of Stockton, Cal., were remarried recently after being divorced since 1918.

Bearded Beauties Oppose Spinnys Club Tonight At Pythian
Manager Alanson Short's Spinnys Five picks up its war clubs for the sixth time tonight to battle Pepper Martin's celebrated Bearded Beauties at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, where a crowd of spectators is expected to jam the hall for the tilt which promises action galore.

So far the Spinnys have won five straight contests, rolling up 194 points against 124 for opposing quintets, including the highly touted Middletown Roskins, St. John's of Goheen, Rosendale Firemen and Saugerties Bigelows. Whether they will be able to continue their brilliant record against a team of the Beauties' calibre seems to interest every fan in Kingston and Port Ewen, indicating a record turnout for the tilt.

Manager Short's four leading scorers should be more than busy tonight, trying to overcome the Martin's men and endeavoring to keep their records inflated. Statistics show the following scoring figures:

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—The stock market closed on a note of currency stabilization possibilities today and found the taste not too unpalatable.

With the domestic gold price again unchanged, and sterling and French francs dropping around 10 cents and 13 of a cent, respectively, equities that would not be especially benefited by inflation turned substantially higher, and even the so-called inflationary groups held their ground. U. S. government securities resumed their recovery and prime investment loans firmed. Grains and cotton were inclined to mark time, their price changes being narrow.

There was a feeling in some quarters that the fixing of the dollar on a gold basis was not far away.

Utility and rail shares made the best showing. The alcoholists also firmed. Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, North American and American Water Works got up 1 to more than 2 points. Similar recoveries were recorded by Union Pacific, Santa Fe and Pennsylvania National. Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol, Schenley and U. S. Industrial Alcohol firmed about a point each. The metals were a bit earlier. American Can, Chrysler, Johns-Manville and DuPont were fractionally to a point higher. American Telephone, U. S. Steel General Motors, Allied Chemical and others were steady.

An advance of 21,613 freight car loadings for the week ended November 23 was about in line with forecasts. The total of 599,255 cars was 2,664 above the 1932 week and 54,714 above the same period in 1931. Miscellaneous shipments were largely responsible for the week's increase.

Traders seemed to pay little attention to the fall of another French shipment on the budgetary issue, to reports of expanding retail trade and a pickup in wholesale prices to the highest levels since the summer of 1931.

All eyes were turned on Washington and Warm Springs where tangible results of the currency controversy were expected to appear soon.

Old White House Roof to Make Gifts

Partner of Mrs. Rosewood in Pleasant Home to Use Materials to Make President's Gifts

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP).—Already the Christmas spirit is abroad in the White House, brought here by the Miss Nancy Cook, furniture-fashions partner of Mrs. Rosewood.

From discarded White House rafters, she's carving exquisite paper knives, and making President Roosevelt's one gift to be a hang-on-the-wall book-case to hold 15 rare miniature volumes, part of his collection.

In past years he has had tables and chests of Miss Cook's making. Last year, and the year before, Mrs. Hoover had Christmas gifts of carved boxes and book-ends made of the wood taken from the White House when the Coolidges remodeled the roof. She wrote a poem to accompany the gifts, explaining their origin.

Stage Is Set for Dramatic Contest

Red, amber and white footlights are ready to glow in Lake Katrine Grange Hall and things are afoot in the kitchen below. All luncheon and matinee parties coming from the county to attend the inter-county dramatic contest Saturday afternoon will therefore, be well taken care of. Delaware, Dutchess, Columbia and Ulster county dramatic casts will be there to have the final try out for honors. The winner will enter the state dramatic festival at the Cornell Farm and Home Week.

In addition to the four plays an excellent musical program will be given. The program begins at 2 o'clock. All luncheon parties are requested to telephone reservations to Mrs. Rupert Everett or Mrs. W. T. Hooley, Jr.

British Peeress Injured in Crash

Shanghai, Nov. 24 (AP).—Countess Carlisle, niece of Sir Miles Lampson, British minister to China, was reported seriously injured in an airplane crash on Chusan island, north-east of Ningpo today. No one was killed.

Lincoln Reynolds, Viola, Calif., American vice consul to Foochow, was said, in the independent advice reaching here, to have been slightly injured. All occupants of the plane were reported to have been hurt.

Lawyers' Associations To Meet in Kingston

Henry Epstein, solicitor-general, and Judge Leonard C. Crouch of the court of appeals are to make addresses at the meeting of the Federation of Bar Associations in the Third Judicial district at Kingston, December 3. Mr. Epstein will discuss "Twilight of the Law." Former Justice James V. Coffey of Troy will be toastmaster at the dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel in the evening.

CREEK LOCKS

Creek Locks, Nov. 24.—Frank Lowery of Athens spent several days with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lowery.

The Rondout creek was a mass of ice clear across to the other shore. Old timers say they can not remember the time when the Rondout was frozen over in November.

Joseph Ebers, Vincent Kelcey and Philip Newman of Greenwich Village, New York city, were week-end guests at the Cypher home.

Mrs. Edna Kelly, Creek Locks teacher, spent the week-end with her parents in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. J. Engleken of Bloomingville was a caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weinar on Sunday afternoon.

Two new scholars, Gloria and Arthur Swanson, were enrolled in the Creek Locks school recently.

Mrs. Arthur Howie is quite seriously ill. Mrs. Joseph Tunker, a nurse, is taking care of her. All hope for her complete recovery.

Mrs. Anna Graham spent a very pleasant evening with Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weinar on Wednesday.

Miss Emma Cypher expects to leave this week for New York city where she will spend some time with her nephew's family.

Mrs. John Yonnett of Bloomingville was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Graham, on Wednesday.

Several residents are busy making preparations for Thanksgiving family reunions and guests.

Three Men Two Names—McBride—or Carter—is a town in Michigan divided against itself. Though the town uses the same city hall, the same fire department and to all outward appearances is one municipality, it has two names. On one side of Division street is McBride. On the other is Carter. The strip developed in 1878 when two persons laid out towns on opposite sides of the road.

Like to Steel—Crows are noted for their timidity, either to the wild state or when kept as pets. The former because the crow for pulling up its own almost as soon as it has spread, and many an owner of a pet crow has complained that these birds will stand as any bright object and hide it in some out-of-the-way place.

Local Death Record

New Palitz, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Cohn, widow of Augustus Cohn, and mother of Charles Cohn, died at the home of her son on Main street Tuesday, November 21.

Marion H. Vignos, wife of Roscoe Vignos, former Democratic leader of Ulster county, died at her home, 216 Washington avenue, Thursday, November 23. Funeral and interment will be private.

Friends wishing to view the remains may do so this evening between 7 and 9 o'clock at her late residence. Interment will be in Wilkewick cemetery. Besides her husband, one sister, Anna H. Vignos, of Brooklyn survives.

John F. Garvey, a former Ulster county resident, and one of the early graduates of Spencer's Business College, died suddenly at his home at Park Ridge, N. J., on November 22. Mr. Garvey was born at Shandaken and has been connected with the hotel business since leaving Kingston. Until his retirement three years ago he was manager of the Hotel Saville in New York city. He is survived by his wife, Marcelle Crell Garvey, formerly of Kingston, and a son, John F. Garvey, Jr.

Mrs. Ernest M. Brown, who before marriage was Dora Wheeler, died at the Benedictine Hospital this morning. She was a native of Rhinebeck, having come to Kingston when a young woman and resided here ever since, making a host of friends who held her in high esteem. Besides her husband there survive three sons, Ernest, Jr., of Kingston and Fred and George of Saugerties; two daughters, Mrs. John Legg of Saugerties and Mrs. Vincent Altobelli. Her funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the James M. Murphy Funeral Home, 176 Broadway. Interment will be in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

Ellenville, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Rebecca N. Silverman, wife of Max Silverman, died at her home on Canal street Tuesday evening after an illness of ten days from pneumonia and heart trouble. Mrs. Silverman was born in Riga, Latvia, 55 years ago, the daughter of Zolman and Bertha Swick. On February 19, 1905, she was married to Max Silverman in New York city, and with him came to Ellenville, where they have since made their home. Mrs. Silverman was a member of Wawarsing Chapter, O. E. S., the Ellenville Women's Club, and the Ladies' Talmud Torah. Surviving her are her husband and five children, Mrs. Ben Miller, Leonard, Ethel, Sidney and Myron, all at home; one brother, Dr. D. A. Sinek, of New York city, and three sisters, Mrs. Philip Silverman, of this village, Miss Frances Swick, and Mrs. Harry L. Rubin, of New York city. Funeral services were held Thursday at Mount Hebron Cemetery, Flushing, L. I.

Sayreville, N. J., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Anna Sinclair Joseph, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stokes of High Falls, and a former resident of Kingston, and New Brunswick, died at her home, 507 Main street, Sayreville, Sunday evening, November 19, after an illness of several months following a heart attack. Mrs. Joseph was born in High Falls, N. Y., where she spent the greater part of her life and her death came as a shock to her many friends and relatives in that village. Surviving are her husband, Frank X. Joseph, of Sayreville, one son, Franklin V. Joseph, of New Brunswick, three daughters, Mrs. Sinclair Darrough, of Hawthorne, N. J.; Mrs. Ellen Kucher and Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, both of Sayreville; eight grandchildren, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; formerly of High Falls, N. Y. Funeral services were held Wednesday from her late home. Interment was in New Calvary cemetery, Parlin, a suburb of Sayreville. The pall bearers were Louis Joseph of New Brunswick, Harold Joseph of Walden, N. Y., Earl Van Demark of New Brunswick, formerly of Kingston, N. Y., Thomas and Edward Joseph of Tottenville, N. Y., and Joseph Hurley of Perth Amboy.

The funeral of Harry L. Wood was held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the funeral parlors of Jensen & Deegan, 113 Broadway, and was very largely attended by his relatives and many friends of this city. The Rev. James M. Armstrong, pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, officiated at the simple but consoling services. A large number of beautiful floral pieces were sent by relatives, friends and the different organizations to which the deceased belonged, silent tributes showing how highly he was esteemed by all who knew him. Wednesday evening a large delegation of Rondout Lodge No. 343, F. and A. M., met at the parlors and held their burial service for their deceased brother. A large number of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers also came to pay their respects to one of their members. The bearers were George E. Burnett, Frank Barton, Martin Cashin, Charles Thomas, William W. Schultz, Sr., and William W. Schultz, Jr., representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Rondout Lodge, No. 342, F. and A. M. The interment was made in the Hurley cemetery where the Rev. Mr. Armstrong read the committal service as the body was laid at rest in the family plot.

Three Killed When Air Liner Crashes

Wedron, Ill., Nov. 24 (AP).—Two men and a girl, crew of an eight-passenger air liner bound for Kansas City, were killed today when the plane crashed in pasture land on a farm near here.

The dead were: Miss Hazel Goodman, Kansas city, stewardess; Pilot R. W. Godall, Chicago; Co-pilot Boyd Grover, Chicago.

The plane, a Boeing low wing monoplane, was a United Air Line craft, "dead heading" for Kansas City, out of Chicago. Only the three members of the regular crew were aboard.

About the Folks

Mrs. Theodore Kowal is convalescing at her home in Marlborough under the care of Dr. Shea of Stone Ridge.

Mrs. Esther Mildebrandt of Vanar College, Poughkeepsie, is convalescing at her home on Leran street, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. William Burns and daughter, Joan, of 82 Hoffman street are visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Adda Mass of Progress street, who has been seriously ill, is improving nicely under the care of Dr. Kenneth LeFevre.

Mrs. Frederick Nees of Stamford, Conn., is spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neesing of 115 Cedar street, having been called here by the sudden illness of her mother.

Miss Eva Hand, who has been seriously ill, was removed from the Kingston Hospital in the W. N. Corner ambulance to her home on Esopus avenue, Thursday. She is under the care of Dr. Rakov.

Society Notes

A Surprise Party

Rosendale, Nov. 24.—Wednesday evening Helen C. West was tendered a surprise party in honor of her 16th birthday. The young people enjoyed the evening with games, singing and dancing. Refreshments were enjoyed. Among those present were Evelyn Fagher of Whiteport, Abigail Ellison of Kingston, Marguerite and Kenneth Randagger, Virginia Markle, Ruth Hotaling and Jordan Relvee of Bloomingville, John Tyler and Adolph Beckhoven of Maple Hill, Leslie Krom, Muriel Gratton and Helen West of Rosendale. The young people spent an enjoyable evening and departed wishing Helen many more happy birthdays.

Carter-De Vall

Willow, Nov. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. L. E. De Vall of Ideal Park announce the marriage on November 16, 1933, of their daughter, Helen Beatrice, to George A. Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Carter of Tampa, Fla. Mr. Carter is a representative of the American Newspaper Association, Public Ledger Building, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Carter left Thursday for a motor trip through the southern states, including the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia. Upon their return, after spending Thanksgiving with Mrs. Carter's parents, they plan to make their home at Clearwater Beach, near Tampa. The happy couple have the well wishes of their many friends.

ROSENDALE DIDN'T BOOK COLONIAL ALLEY FIVE

Managers Delaney and Baxter of the Rosendale Firemen have requested The Freeman to state that their team was never officially booked to play the Colonial Alley Five. They also wish to have it known that they are the only members of the team doing any booking. "We desire to play at the reputable teams in this vicinity" is the way Delaney and Baxter concluded their message.

FREER WILL MANAGE RICHFIELD GAS STATION

Clarence Freer, more familiarly known to his host of friends in Kingston and vicinity as "Pete", has taken over the management of the Richfield gas station on Broadway, next to Gregory and Co. He will operate the station at once, offering prompt, courteous service and featuring Richfield gas and Richlube oil. He extends an invitation to his many friends to pay his new place of business a visit.

Our Loadings Increased.—Washington, Nov. 24 (AP).—The American Railway Association announced today that loadings of revenue freight for the week ended November 18 were 599,259 cars, an increase of 21,612 over the preceding week and 25,666 above 1932.

Called For Grange Fire

This morning about 7:30 o'clock the fire department responded to a call from Box 221, for a fire in the apartments of A. L. Newell at 365 Washington avenue. Some grease on the stove had caught fire. There was no damage.

Former Mendelssohn Club Members to Sing

Former members of the Mendelssohn Club are cordially invited to join the present membership in the giving of the benefit concert at the Kingston High School Auditorium on the evening of December 5, for the benefit of the work of the coordinating welfare committee of this city. As many as can do so are asked to attend the rehearsal this evening at 7:45 o'clock at the Elks' Club. Dr. Tidmarsh will conduct this and the two other rehearsals as well as the concert.

Mrs. Florence Walcott Cuddeback will be one of the soloists, giving a group of violin selections, accompanied by Mrs. Nadman.

In this benefit concert the Mendelssohn Club is entirely reverting its mode of procedure in order that as large a sum as possible may be realized for volunteer relief work in the city this winter. While always before their concerts have been entirely complimentary an admission will be charged for this concert and tickets are already selling rapidly. For former concerts the club has paid generously for its soloists. For the benefit concert all of the soloists will contribute their services. This is the first opportunity that the greatly indebted music-loving public of Kingston has had an opportunity to express a material appreciation of the many favors received from the Mendelssohn Club in the past.

H. B. Picht, plumber and juror in a Seattle, Wash., murder trial, became official barber of the jury when the bailiff refused to let outsiders in.

FRENCH DYE WORKS HAS REMODELED AND RENOVATED

The French Dye Works have made a number of improvements to the property at 524 Broadway, remodeling and redecorating. A fully appointed office and reception room has been arranged in the front portion of the building with art work, finished walls and ceiling. In the rear have been installed the racks and cabinets containing the dyed work. The cleaning and drying rooms have also been reconstructed and additional pressing machines installed. The plant is owned by Ed and Max Dubin. By the changes that have been made the plant has been made entirely modern throughout.

High school student debaters of Mendelssohn will travel 2,500 miles to debate with high schools in western United States.

Monkey Mouse Circus

Amuses Old and Young

Of all the attractions in the toy department at the Rose & Gorman store, and with a bigger display than ever there are hundreds of them, first place for popularity is being held these days by the Monkey Mouse Circus.

The space about the large enclosure in which the performing white mice are kept and where they are continually busy doing stunts of all kinds was crowded Thursday by an amused and interested crowd of both old and young.

The circus enclosure is equipped with playground paraphernalia of all kinds, including a tennis wheel, squirrel cage, slides, tight rope, saw, etc. The mice apparently numbering hundreds, go from one machine to another and seem to be trying to demonstrate their ability to pull off any kind of performance. Some of their stunts are very amusing.

Everyone is invited to come Saturday and bring the children to see the treat. It is free to all in the toy department of the Rose & Gorman store.

SUNDAY EVENING SERVICE

AT BAPTIST CHURCH

At the Albany Avenue Baptist Church on Sunday evening the Daughters of America and members of the Junior Order of American Mechanics are expecting to attend in a body. The service will be appropriate to the occasion, and the service begins at 7:30. Besides singing by the male quartet there will be two special violin duets by Charles Brandt and Horace Harding. All are cordially invited to this special service.

WITCHCRAFT FOUND RULING IGNORANT IN JERSEY COLONY

Witchcraft Rites Practiced by Group of Superstitious Whites and Blacks.

Newark, N. J.—The weird rite of voodooism, the ancient of witchcraft, the night of the moon, the rite of the evil eye and the rite of the dead.

Not of the Middle Ages are these, but of modern America on the very outskirts of metropolitan New York. Following the report of Assistant Attorney General Robert T. Penock that witchcraft and black magic still flourish in Southern New Jersey, and that several heart-rending tragedies have been enacted as result of voodoo influence, an intensive investigation was begun.

In a wild part of the country a dozen families of blacks and whites live in ramshackle huts and shanties and engage in the fantastic rites over which Doctor Hyghcock presides. By day they till their barren farms and feed their scrawny stock. By night they join in the savage worship that came to America from the heart of Africa in the steaming holds of slave ships.

"Has Sacred Compound." Part of the clearing has been set aside by Doctor Hyghcock as sacred ground. He has built a wall around it—a wall of broken bedposts, chicken wire, abandoned automobiles, and rotting timbers. The wall encloses an area of perhaps half an acre.

Inside are the voodoo church, the underground catacombs, and the shanties and pens where the doctor's acolytes live among the goats, dogs, rabbits and chickens. Savage, half-starved dogs guard the entrance to this voodoo fortress.

Narrow winding passages connect a series of underground caverns in the voodoo catacombs. These caverns are walled up with timber to keep the earth from sliding in and filling them. Each of the tiny rooms is equipped with a battered cot or broken bed-spring.

Those who live in the colony profess to know nothing of their purpose. Doctor Hyghcock vanishes mysteriously when strangers approach his domain.

Just a hundred yards away is a row of crude graves, with plain pine-board markers. Some of them are outlined with stone or brick, some are decorated with milk bottles or broken crockery. Some are full-sized graves. Some are the tiny graves of children.

Raiders Are Futile. Occasionally state troopers swoop down on the place, search out the gloomy catacombs, question the mixed black and white inhabitants, but these swift raids are always in vain. None can be found who admit knowledge of the voodoo sacrificial rites conducted in the underground maze or in the rough board temple.

Police have definitely established that Doctor Hyghcock sells voodoo charms to his superstitious flock and he has been arrested for the illegal practice of medicine, but the strange serpent worship imported to America from the African jungles in the crowded holds of the slave ships still persists.

Doctor Hyghcock is not the only voodoo doctor working in New Jersey. Recently Atlantic City police discovered six small negro boys distributing 12,000 circulars in the negro quarter of the city for a Brooklyn voodoo priest. The circulars advertised: "Spells of all kinds released or broken. Love apples in all forms. High John the Conqueror. Adam and Eve, black cat's ankle dust and all kinds of highest appreciated herbs and roots. Cash or credit."

Adventurer, 88, Waited Years to Learn to Fly

Oakland, Calif.—Calvin H. Blanchard has waited until he was eighty-eight before he began taking flying lessons, but only because he has been "too busy" having other adventures.

Blanchard's adventures began when he served in the Civil war. He was twice wounded, but recovered in time to participate in Sherman's famous march to the sea. After the war he came to California, participating in the events accompanying its development until 1897, when he joined the gold rush to Alaska.

Fourteen years later he returned to California and entered the federal forestry service. He was retired recently, but finding that he has taken up aviation. He hopes to obtain a private pilot's license this summer and take an aerial trip around the country.

Montana Rabbit Leaps Through Car Windshield

Drummond, Mont.—The leaping abilities of Montana jackrabbits, as celebrated as the prowess of Mark Twain's jumping frog, reached new traditions recently when a "jack" vaulted himself through the windshield of a traveling automobile and into the rear seat of the machine. Charles Hayes, Lloyd Campbell and another hunter were driving near Drummond when a ten-pound rabbit buried itself through the windshield, and landed, dead, in the rear seat.

Used Fish as Mascots

The fish was looked upon as a symbol of fertility by the ancient Chaldeans who placed fish mascots around the temples to the God of Raining Water in the hope that this practice would bring fertility to their fields.

Filipino Independence Knot Stays Snarled While Quezon Comes To Visit Roosevelt

Coming to Washington

MANUEL QUEZON, President of the Philippines, is expected to arrive in Washington early in December for a conference with President Roosevelt.

By E. E. BOMAR Manila, P. I. (P)—With the period in which the pending Philippine independence act must be accepted nearing expiration on January 17, 1934, the insular legislature tied itself into parliamentary knots in trying to reach a decision. The bitter fight began before the opening of the annual 100-day session July 17 and it was nearly three months later before a definite program was advanced by Manuel Quezon, the mercurial senate president, who has completely dominated the proceedings.

DEATHS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press) Alfred B. Koch, Toledo, O.—Alfred B. Koch, president of the La Salle and Koch Company, large Toledo department store, and director of the R. H. Macy Company, New York.

Rodolphe Henry Motzu, Baltimore—Rodolphe Henry Motzu, Dutch consul in Baltimore for more than 18 years.

George R. King, Detroit—George R. King, 83, formerly a general contractor at Duluth and Minneapolis, Minn.

James Edward Tucker, Los Angeles—James Edward Tucker, 67, former vice president of the Electric Products Corporation and prominently identified with bringing the Neon light to America.

Francois Albert, Paris—Francois Albert, 56, minister of labor in the Daladier cabinet.

Plans Washington Trip

He then said the legislature go on record as opposing the act in its present form, but leaving the way clear for formal acceptance nevertheless before the lapsing of the congressional power of freedom.

Quezon then revealed his plan to go to Washington for a conference with President Roosevelt. He is due to land in San Francisco November 27.

If the President would assure him congress would consider amendments which he desired, he announced he would cable a recommendation to the legislature to accept the act.

Refers Referendum Talk

Time and again Quezon denounced the act as completely unsatisfactory but he would not assume the responsibility of demanding that the legislature reject it outright. The triennial general elections are scheduled for next June and his fees charged he was afraid of defeat at those polls if he cast aside the independence demanded by Filipinos for three decades.

Quezon's refusal to approve a referendum containing a single question of acceptance or rejection resulted in scrapping the plan for a plebiscite, after all other details were arranged.

The insular house in September adopted a three-question plebiscite bill sponsored by Quezon, but the measure bogged down in the senate.

Then Senator Sergio Osmeña, outstanding champion of acceptance, with an eye to the June elections, unexpectedly presented a motion at an all-night session, to accept the act, it was voted down, 15 to 4.

Next, Quezon prevailed on both branches to ratify the senate's adverse action.

May Reverse Vote

This, he said, did not mean absolute rejection, as the law provides only that it must be accepted within a year. So the way apparently was left clear for the legislature to reverse itself, if desired.

Out of the confusion reigning in Filipino politics for weeks the only clear conclusion was that Quezon was complete master of the situation.

NEWBURGH LOCAL UNION
EPWORTH LEAGUE SESSION

New Paltz, Nov. 24.—Tuesday evening, November 21, the Newburgh Local Union Epworth League held the final session of its Winter Institute in the New Paltz Methodist Episcopal Church. The following chapters were represented: Grace Methodist Episcopal, Newburgh; Highland, Walden; St. John's, Newburgh; Cornwall; Maybrook; Trinity, Newburgh; Clintondale; Modena; Vails Gate; Middletown; Goshen; and Warwick. After the banquet, with the following menu, fruit cup, roast turkey with dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, succotash, cranberry sauce, celery, olives, rolls, butter, pumpkin pie and coffee, the institute adjourned to the church auditorium.

The Rev. J. W. Taylor of Vails Gate was chairman of the service. After several announcements they sang "Blessed Assurance" and Mr. Taylor introduced the Rev. Mr. Shultz of Kingston, who spoke on "What the Epworth League Means to the Young People". Then the Rev. Mr. Rignall of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church of Kingston gave the main address of the evening. His topic was "The Maxims of the Epworthian". The meeting closed with the singing of "True Hearted, Whole Hearted" and the benediction.

The Institute of 110 guests beside the local members then adjourned to the lecture room where each of the four recreational teams presented a stunt. The Irish-Swede group presented "The Big Bad Wolf". The Scotch presented "The Scotch Institute Parliament", and the Czechoslovians presented "The Grand Hotel". The English stunt won first place but the final score went to the Scotch, who were served with lolly-pops. The Rev. Robert L. Mauterstock, Dean of the Institute, dismissed the session with prayer and benediction.

The following ladies of the church were on the supper committee: Mrs. Frank Guinac, Mrs. Walter Smith, Mrs. Adam Koenig, Mrs. Robert L. Mauterstock and Mrs. Webb Kniffen. They were assisted in serving the supper in the evening by the following committee members of the league: The Misses Myra Gerald, Blanche Guinac, Elizabeth Hasbrouck and Grace Mauterstock. A number of the other league members served in the dining room.

Supervisor Voss that there be raised on the town of Shandaken the following sum: $550 to pay town bonds and interest due in 1934; $708 to pay certificates of indebtedness on voting machines; $6,724.91 to pay certificates of indebtedness issued for Public Welfare work; $150 for American Legion Post, P. New British National Political Party
Seen As Result Of Cabinet Set-backs

The "Big Three" Of England

Fresh political alignments are predicted by British experts as a result of recent set-backs to the national cabinet headed by Ramsay MacDonald, laborite (center), Stanley Baldwin, conservative (right), and Sir John Simon, liberal.

London (AP)—Dominating the British political picture, as the session of parliament develops, is the question whether the national government is planning to weld itself into a new party.

Many in political circles foresee the formation of a national party which would swallow up the conservative party and the liberal and laborite supporters of the MacDonald cabinet.

This step, some say, is the only logical way for the "temporary" coalition of 1931 to insure itself a more lasting life in the face of its tremendous power but growing unpopularity.

Critics Cite Defeats.

Swept into office in 1931 by the greatest majority in the nation's history, the national government has had no opposition and critics of its two-year regime argue that this lack is reflected in its conspicuous failure to give an aggressive leadership to the nation.

These critics assert that public opinion is rising against the government and as evidence cite its resounding defeat in East Fulham, a London borough, in a by-election to fill a vacancy in the house of commons, besides the decided laborite gains in the municipal elections.

It is up to the national government, some political observers say, to do something to recapture its waning popularity and the formation of a national party may be the answer.

To others, the fusion of cabinet interests into one organization is seen as the form of mild dictatorship Great Britain would accept, as well as the form which would prevent any more vigorous type from coming into power.

Announcement of such a plan was looked for on the eve of the last session of the old parliament when Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister; Stanley Baldwin and Sir John Simon, king pins of the present coalition, spoke at a nationalist luncheon.

Alliance Pledged Anew.

What was said, for the first time officially, was that the coalition formed two years ago plans to go through the next general election in its present form "and retain the pact," as MacDonald put it, "of the national government for the next period of office."

To Discuss Relief
Work Here Tonight

The meeting of the Workers' Co-operative Association to be held this evening in the City Hall is open to business men, professional men, taxpayers and workers and others, including men and women interested in the welfare of the city and the immediate starting of work in this city in accordance with the civil works program as set up by the Federal Government.

This meeting is said to be of vital importance to every citizen of the city of Kingston.

Mayor Carey, Mayor-elect Walker and Alderman-at-large Helesman have been invited and urged to attend the meeting so as to give their views on the situation.

Also the views of the business men and workers will be outlined by other speakers.

As this meeting is an important one, it is expected that the common council chambers will be filled when the meeting is called at 8 o'clock.
